CRISIS COMES TODAY IN RAIL STRIKE SITUATION

DEATH BULLETINS TELL SENSATIONS OF POISON VICTIM

A. A. Webb Takes 30 Grains of Aspirin, Ounce of Carbolic Acid, Then Jumps Into Lake.

UNABLE TO TAKE CARE OF FAMILY, HE WRITES

Postoffice Employee Had Been Discharged From Position and Had Failed to Secure Reinstatement.

Leaving death bulletins in which he described his sensations as the end approached, A. A. Webb, aged 45, of 18 Argard avenue, committed suicide at a late hour yesterday afternoon by taking 30 grains of aspirin, one ounce of carbolic acid and then throwing himself in the lake at Grant Park.

The body was discovered shortly after the act was committed. In fact, he was seen to throw himself in the lake by a woman who refused to give her name to the police and who left the park before her address or name could be found out, according to Officer Gant.

Officer Gant said that he was standing near the refreshment stand in the park shortly before 7:30 o'clock, talking to R. B. Robertson, when some woman, whom he did not know, came rushing up to them with the statement that a man had just thrown himself into the lake.

Mr. Robertson and the officer at once went to the scene, which was about 100 feet from the pavilion on the lake at the north end. Near the bank on the west side of the lake they found a pile of clothes neatly laid aside, with personal effects, including a watch, some small change and a few letters.

DEATH HAD CLAIMED VICTIM.

Mr. Robertson said that as soon as they reached the spot he took off all his clothes except his underwear and waded in the lake to get the body.

"I had no trouble in locating the body," he said in his description. "The water is only about 3 feet deep at this point. Mr. Webb's body was lying on the bottom in the mud. I had no difficulty in getting the body to the shore, but found some trouble in lifting it to the land. The man was dead when we got his body on the shore. I am inclined to think that the acid caused his death, as the water was too shallow to drown anyone and he had not been in the lake a sufficient length of time."

With the clothes Officer Gant and Mr. Robertson found a lengthy letter, consisting of ten closely written pages from a small ordinary tablet. The letter was written in pencil and all of it was legible.

In this last letter Mr. Webb had described his actions from the time of his arrival at the park until just before he took the plunge into the water. He told of having planned the suicide for some time past, of having bought the aspirin and the acid and even went into details over the effect of the poison from time to time after he had taken it and before he took the plunge into the lake.

The letter was evidently the work of a man in his sane mind and with the full use of all his faculties. It described how he had taken every precaution to avoid anyone he knew and how he was on the lookout for the police from the time he entered the park. It showed that he was fully determined on his course of action, for in one place he told of having passed the car line on his way to the lake and wrote of how easy it would be to ask for help and get instant relief.

NIGHT CROWDS GATHER.

In the closing lines he describes the

With Death Slowly Approaching Suicide Writes Instructions for His Funeral and Interment

With death slowly approaching as the result of the dose of aspirin, A. A. Webb last night at Grant Park described his dying sensations in a letter which was left unaddressed. In it he told why he had determined to end his life, asked friends to take care of his funeral, and sought God's forgiveness for the step he had taken. Then every five minutes or ten minutes he added a bulletin, beginning at 6 p. m. and ending at 7:15 o'clock, when he decided to go to the lake, take an ounce of carbolic acid and plunge into the waters. The letter in full follows:

6:00 p. m.—I have just taken 30 grains of aspirin and expect to take 1 ounce of carbolic acid in a few minutes. I had hoped to avoid this, but have been swept on by an invincible tide [illegible] at the power of resistance. I have fought against it only to delay. I am out of work, and it seems to me without friends. I have no means to go upon and am embarrassed because I cannot take care of my loved ones. I regret to leave all of my people as I do, and particularly my boys and girls. They have been without a mother for five years, and now they will be fatherless. It is an awful thing to place obstacles in the way of life's best efforts, and this is what Postmaster Jones and I. G. Hart did for me. I declare now that they are indirectly guilty of my death, for I solemnly swear, as I pass over the river, that my discharge was effected by false accusations. I have pleaded for reinstatement, which could have been accomplished if proper action had been made to authorities in Washington. Postmaster Jones was too proud to come clear in the matter after he had admitted to me personally that a mistake had been made.

6:15 p. m.—The aspirin is beginning to take effect, but my mind is practically clear. This act appears to be very deliberate, but my heart has suffered agonies before the effort to end it all. I write all that there is no pleasure in it.

6:20 p. m.—I have tried to think that it will be best now to seek relief, but I am still being swept on in a maelstrom of despair.

6:25 p. m.—I had intended leaving my watch at home this afternoon, but forgot to do so. But I think it will be found on my person when my body is found. I am in the large pavilion and do not know whether I shall leave it alive. I know the pain will be fearful when I swallow the acid, and I may give an alarm. But I calculate that no possible effort to save me will be successful. My loved ones may dispose of my body as they deem best. The interment may be either at Adel or Byromville. Perhaps the latter would be less expensive and most convenient to all concerned, but Adel may be preferred. Relatives or friends will have to finance my burial, but I am leaving a small amount of insurance. My dear little daughter is at Byromville, and if the interment is at Adel, should go on down there instead of coming back to Atlanta. I ask the forgiveness of dear old mother, my dear brothers and sisters, and my precious, helpless children, and my dear little wife for the sorrow and suffering that is coming to them. Forgive me and forget me as quickly as possible. Of Almighty God, whom I have loved and worshipped for a quarter of a century, I beg and pray forgiveness. My walk in life has not been so close to Him in recent years, but now I hope my sin is not an unpardonable one.

6:40 p. m.—Visitors are now coming in and I am going out somewhere else to take the final dose. There will be no light outside and I may not write any more. God forgive. God bless all.

(Signed) A. A. WEBB.

18 Argard Avenue.

7:00 p. m.—The aspirin seems to be a little slow. I am now at the car track and it would be such an easy matter to say something and be relieved, but fate has decreed otherwise. I think I will go down to the water's edge and take the acid and, to make assurance doubly sure, I may take a plunge. I am trying not to arouse suspicion in any way and am looking out for officers all the time, but I don't think the other end will fail me.

7:15 p. m.—The people are coming out from town in merry groups, bringing their lunches with them. It is interesting to note their happiness. It is impossible for me to join in. All is gloom with me now. I am watching every car to see if there is any one that I know, but not yet.

I am now by the water's edge, and am in total darkness. It must be about 7:30 o'clock and I cannot defer the matter much longer. This, my last effort, must be a success.

To the one who finds my body: Notify Mrs. Florence Webb, 18 Argard avenue; Miss Anita Webb, 296 Central avenue.

(Signed) A. A. WEBB.

18 Argard Avenue.

Let Boden & Hunter have charge of my body.

Postmaster Boling H. Jones declined to make any comment last night on the reference made to him by Webb in his letter. He merely said that Webb had been employed as a clerk at the general delivery window, but had left the government's employ considerably over a year ago.

GERMANS LAUNCH DRIVE AT FRENCH AT ST. MIHIEL TIP

Force of Blow by Germans Carried Them to the French Trenches, But They Were Ejected by Counter Attack.

ALLIES MAKING GAINS ON THE SOMME FRONT

Berlin Admits Loss of Maurepas—British Advance Lines Several Hundred Yards in the Region Near Delville Wood.

The usual period of comparative inactivity has followed the western front gains reported by Paris and London, and partially confirmed by Berlin. The Germans have, however, attempted a new blow at the French at the point of the famous St. Mihiel salient. This salient juts far into the French line southeast of Verdun and has been the scene of some of the bloodiest fighting in France. The force of the Germans' blow carried them to the French trenches, but, Paris says, they were evicted immediately by a counter attack.

The lull on the eastern front continues, but the renewed offensive by the Grand Duke Nichols in Armenia is growing in extent. The recent fighting in the region of Lake Van is described in Petrograd as a crushing blow to the Turks, and Russian military critics predict the resumption of the grand duke's advance toward Asia Minor.

ALLIED LINES NEAR COMBLES.

Paris, August 25.—The complete occupation of Maurepas brings the French and the English advanced lines on the Somme within 2 miles of Combles, the advance on which is greatly aided by this forward movement.

Maurepas formed one of the principal supporting points between the Somme and the highway from Albert to Bapaume and also was an important strategic base by reason of its situation on a plateau dominating the region towards the south.

The Germans have placed on the line against the French between Hardecourt and Clery the fifth division of Bavarian reserves and the first division of the Prussian guards. This guard division is commanded in person by Prince Eitel Frederich, second son of the German emperor, and took part in the fighting at Maurepas.

Guillemont, where the English have made progress, is being defended by the Kaiser Wilhelm II. regiment of Wuerttemberg.

GROUND GAINED BY THE BRITISH.

London, August 25.—Official announcement was made today that after hard fighting on the Somme front the British lines had been advanced several hundred yards in the region near Delville wood.

The statement concerning operations in northern France says:

"On our right we joined up with the French, who made important progress yesterday through Maurepas. Much hard fighting has taken place in the eastern and northern edges of Delville Wood and we have now advanced our line several hundred yards on each side of the Longueval-Flers road. As a result of these operations eight officers and 179 of other ranks had been taken prisoner by 8 o'clock this morning.

"The length of the enemy's trenches captured south of Thiepval yesterday reported in last night's communique extends across the Leipsic salient for a distance of some 700 yards. Still further progress has been made in this sector by bombing attacks, and with very small loss to ourselves we have taken 500 prisoners in addition to the 62 reported last night.

"Near the quarries east of Hulluch we exploded a mine, the crater of which we are now consolidating. Last night we made several successful raids, entering the German lines north of Neuville-St. Vaast, near Hulluch, and west of Aubers, inflicting some loss on the enemy. Near Cuinchy a small hostile raiding party entered one of our saps, but was easily bombed out."

Repulse of a German attack on the British trenches west of Ginchy is reported in a war office statement issued at midnight. The statement follows:

"West of Ginchy the enemy last night to the strength of about two companies, attempted to attack our trenches, but were driven back by our machine gun fire. The enemy's guns maintained a fairly heavy fire last night on these trenches and this continued today. He also bombarded trenches we captured last night near Delville wood.

"There was much artillery activity by both sides on various parts of the front. We captured two machine guns yesterday near Delville wood. Ninety prisoners, besides those already reported, were passed back today on the front between Mouquet farm and the Leipzig salient.

"Two aeroplane raids were carried out against some of the principal railroad sidings on the enemy's line of communication. Several trains were hit and considerable damage was caused to rolling stock. Other points of military importance were also bombarded. Hostile aircraft generally avoided combats but there was some engagements in which a number of enemy machines were damaged and driven down. One of our machines was brought down by the enemy's guns."

GERMANS REPULSED AT ST. MIHIEL.

Paris, August 25.—(Via London.)—The Germans have made a new assault on the French line at the tip of the famous salient of St. Mihiel, but have been repulsed after gaining a footing

KILLING JUSTIFIED, DECLARES HUSBAND

H. C. Adams Declares Captain Edgar J. Spratling Had Taken Advantage of Woman Who Slew Him.

"God knows my wife was justified in killing Spratling, for his crime against her had preyed upon her mind as a horrible nightmare, and, I believe, unbalanced it," declared H. C. Adams, husband of the woman now incarcerated in Bibb county jail for shooting to death Friday morning Captain Edgar J. Spratling, of Company "F" national guard of Georgia, at Camp Harris, Macon, Georgia.

Captain Spratling, an Atlanta physician, is alleged by the husband to have attacked the woman who killed him while he was treating her in his offices in the Empire Life building for organic trouble.

Mrs. Adams had left Atlanta early Friday morning without the knowledge of her husband.

Wife Justified, Says Husband.

In Atlanta Friday H. C. Adams, husband of the slayer, was found and told of the occurrence. "I didn't know she was going to do it," he said. "But she is justified, if any person ever was. She told me last Friday of the reason which prompted her act today, and she then threatened to kill him. I thought I had succeeded in convincing her that it was of no use. She had a right to shoot him."

Mr. Adams was at the time attending his duties as an employee of the Piedmont laundry.

"I think her mind has become impaired," he stated. "This man has preyed on her for several weeks, and though I did all I could to prevent it, it was useless."

When asked the cause which led to the killing of Captain Spratling, Mr. Adams freely discussed the matter with The Constitution reporter.

"It all began several weeks ago," he said, "at the time Mrs. Adams went to Dr. Spratling for treatment. He diagnosed her case as a nervous condition caused by organic trouble, and agreed to treat her. I arranged with him myself for the whole course. We discussed it and arranged for my wife to visit his office for treatment. She did so, and not until last Friday did I find that her visits to the office of the doctor were the cause of her mental state. She was very much worried over

SEVEN ARE CAUGHT IN BOOZE DRAGNET

Prisoners Are Charged With Being Connected With Sale of Money-Order Stubs Calling for Liquor.

Following up the recent charges in the recorder's court in regard to certain money order stubs being sold around the Southern Express office by representatives of whisky firms outside of the state, Detectives Maddox, Hamby and Vickery last night made a round up of several persons suspected of being involved by selling the stubs, bearing fictitious names, which enabled the bearer to secure whisky within a remarkably short time.

The detectives first arrested a negro, Henry Shelton, of 211 Randolph street, whom they say they caught selling the stubs in the Southern Express office, and when he was taken in charge he told the detectives that he had gotten the stubs from Otto I. Kahn, of 444 Glenn street, for whom he declares he was selling the stubs. Immediately Otto Kahn was taken into custody, and a number of stubs were found on his person, along with a list of about 200 orders, and papers indicating that several persons were working under him as salesmen of stubs.

F. Stomaker, 22, of the Oliver hotel, had already been caught with evidence of sales of stubs against him, say the detectives. He was arrested and soon after secured his release. He was watched closely by the detetives.

After Stomaker had been arrested developments in his case led the police to arrest S. P. Hill, 48, of 31 Grand building; Lou Castro, 40, of 61 West Harris street; W. B. Little, 33, of 32 Carnegie way; Cicero Shorter, a negro, 33, of 358 Fort street. These men were brought to police headquarters, where Hill, Castro, Little Kahn and Shorter were placed under $1,000 bond each. They made bond.

The detectives say that a number of stubs, about $500 in money, a number of letters, money orders for whisky and beer in large quantities, a list of alleged fictitious names, records of sales, records of certain payments made to agents operating for the defendants and other papers were found as evidence against the arrested.

The detectives say they believe the defendants were working with a man named Webb, who operates from Chattanooga and Jacksonville, and who in turn has been acting as agent for certain whisky firms. Letters from Webb, they claim, would indicate this.

Mrs. Maud Monk Admits Intimacy With Slain Officer and Claims to Have Seen Threatening Letter Written Him by Mrs. Adams.

"HE WAS MY PHYSICIAN, AND RUINED MY LIFE," IS MRS. ADAMS' CLAIM

"My Only Mistake Is That I Did Not Tell My Husband Sooner," She Says in Jail—Believes She Will Be Justified.

By Britt Craig.

Macon, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—The slaying of Captain Edgar J. Spratling, of Company F, Fifth infantry, in his tent at Camp Harris today by Mrs. H. C. Adams, of Atlanta, and the latter's statement that the physician had ruined her life, was followed by another sensational angle tonight when Mrs. Maud Monk asserted that jealousy had prompted the killing.

Mrs. Monk, a trained nurse, formerly of Atlanta, but more recently of Columbus, was closely questioned by Colonel Orville Hall and other officers of the Fifth regiment when a report leaked out that there was another woman in the case.

According to the officers, Mrs. Monk admitted that she had been friendly to Captain Spratling for the past four years; that she had been here in a hotel for the last two weeks, and that she had seen a letter from Mrs. Adams stating that if the captain did not bring her (Mrs. Adams) to Macon she would come here and "put out his lights."

"It's just a case of jealousy," said Mrs. Monk.

Mrs. Monk was not detained.

Has Hotel Suite.

Mrs. Monk occupies a suite in the Plaza downtown hotel, where she has been stopping for the past three weeks, having come to Macon from Buena Vista, her birthplace, at the request, she says, of the slain captain, with whom she had been intimate for four years or more.

Mrs. Adams could not be reached in her cell tonight for a statement regarding Mrs. Monk's startling assertions. She denied admission to everyone, including her husband, telling jailers that she would give audience to no one until Saturday morning.

"I was with Dr. Spratling no later than yesterday afternoon," Mrs. Monk said tonight when she was quizzed first by a representative of The Constitution, who discovered her connection with the case, and later by Colonel Orville H. Hall, commandant of the Fifth regiment; Major W. H. Leahy, in charge of the slain man's battalion; Captain A. W. Candler, of the Fifth, and Major A. H. Lindorme, of the medical corps.

"We took a customary walk through the downtown streets, having a drink at a drug store. He talked with me then about this woman. He was anxious to get rid of her. He said that she was foolish; that she had no provocation to fall in love with him, but that she had got desperately mad about him.

Showed Her Letter.

"Once he showed me a letter from her. It read that she wanted to come to Macon—wanted him to bring her—said that if he didn't furnish an apartment for her and let her join him, she would come down and put out his lights. He laughed at this, but it frightened me. I knew what a jealous woman would do.

"He told me when he first made mention of Mrs. Adams that she was a foolish woman who had gone off her head about him, and asked me what to do in such a case. I said that the best thing would be to make her mad, as that was the way women did when they were confronted with similar problems. He laughed and intimated that he would try it.

"I think it was nothing but a case of insane jealousy. From all I could gather there had been no illicit relations between them. I judge this from her letters to him, and from one to her which he showed me before it was mailed. It looked as a plain case of a woman's undue infatuation for a man she admired.

"Neither do I believe she was in a delicate condition. Certainly she would have mentioned such a fact in her letters. Dr. Spratling virtually told me that he had had no intimacy with the woman—that his relations with her had been first professional, and then friendly, due to her vigorous approaches."

Mrs. Monk stated that she first met Dr. Spratling four years ago when she was employed as trained nurse, with a woman patient in the Terminal hotel and that from the outset she had been attracted by him, and that their relations began from that hour. Her husband, from whom she is separated, is a resident of Pelham, Ga., she stated.

Breaks Into Tears.

She was questioned closely by Colonel Hall and his associates at the Plaza. At one time she broke into tears, relating her alleged intimacy with the slain captain, of whom she admitted she had been exceptionally fond, denying herself a lucrative practice in Co-

COUNTER PROPOSAL HOLDING TO DEMAND FOR ARBITRATION DRAFTED BY ROADS

Railway Presidents Adopted Counter Proposal After the Brotherhood Leaders Had Announced That They Would Not Wait Longer Than Today for a Reply to Wilson's Suggestion.

RAILWAY CHIEFS SAY THEIR PLAN PUTS ISSUE SQUARELY UP TO THE MEN

Attitude of the Brotherhoods Toward the Counter Proposal Not Known—It Is Asserted That Many of the Railway Presidents Would Welcome a Strike. Crisis Expected at Noon Today When President Wilson Has Engagement to See the Brotherhood Leaders.

Washington, August 25.—After the heads of the four great railroad brotherhoods threatening a nation-wide strike had gone to the white house today with a warning that their men would not wait longer than tomorrow night for a reply from the railroad executives to President Wilson's suggestion that an eight-hour day be granted, the executives tonight agreed upon a counter proposal to be submitted to the president tomorrow.

Outline of Railroad Plan.

This plan, holding to the demand for arbitration which the employees have declared they unalterably oppose, proposes:

That the uestion of an eight-hour day is not directly connected with the matter at issue and that there is a difference between an actual eight-hour day and an eight-hour day as a basis for pay.

That the question of an eight-hour are indisputably questions which should be settled by arbitration.

That the present demands of the trainmen be submitted to arbitration by the interstate commerce commission or some board to be created by the president or in some other way.

That if the arbitrating board finds a wage increase should be granted their finding will be retroactive and the increase will take effect from the time the arbitration begins.

That a fund shall be created by the railroads to provide for this contingency, the interstate commerce commission to keep the accounts that will be necessary and the arrangement to continue in force for a time not yet determined upon, the men agreeing that during the period of arbitration there shall be no further demands nor any attempt to strike.

A draft of this report was submitted tonight by the committee of eight presidents who have been constantly at work upon its various phases for a week. There was some discussion, but only one vote was taken and by it the

CONGRESS PREPARES TO QUIT NEXT FRIDAY

Washington, August 25.—Congress is getting ready to adjourn next Friday, if possible, ignoring all threats of members to press special bills for consideration over protests of administration leaders.

It is expected that a joint resolution to provide for adjournment Friday evening will be submitted to both houses next week, as soon as the general deficiency appropriation bill has passed the house, probably on Tuesday. Democratic leaders declare the resolution will be adopted and that this will operate to check a threatened prolonged fight in the senate over the Owen corrupt practices bill.

Senator Owen's determination to demand a vote on a motion to take up the corrupt practices bill still hangs over the senate, but several influential democrats said today that his motion, if made, would be defeated. Senator Smith, of South Carolina, intends to seek another opportunity to pass the immigration bill. After the deficiency and revenue bills are passed, however, senate leaders on both sides say "wild horses could not hold a quorum."

To clear the way for adjournment, Majority Leader Kitchin sent urgent telegrams today to all house absentees asking that they return at once for the final legislative drive of the session. The house has the shipping bill as amended and the forthcoming revenue bill conference report to dispose of next week. In the senate it is planned to lay aside the revenue bill to pass the deficiency appropriation bill as soon as it gets through the house.

"When that is done," said Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, "all general debate on the revenue bill will halt and it will be rushed through. In the meantime senate amendments to the house bill are being informally considered with ways and means committee members and a final report will be ready almost as soon as the bill reaches the house to be sent to conference. With the revenue bill passed I do not think that anything can stop adjournment of congress unless something entirely unexpected should develop."

If anything should happen to prevent adjournment next Friday, it will be necessary for congress to stay over until the following week, as President Wilson will be in New Jersey Saturday receiving formal notification of his nomination for re-election.

PLANS TAX TO CHECK SOARING PAPER PRICES

Washington, August 25.—Senator Hitchcock, democrat, has prepared an amendment to the revenue bill intended to check the soaring prices of news print paper. He said today he would bring it up in the senate when certain sections were reached for debate. Mr. Hitchcock is himself a newspaper publisher.

Paper selling at $40 a ton and under would not be taxed. When the price passes $40 a ton a tax of $1 a ton would prevail until $45 a ton is reached when the tax would increase to $2 and mount up gradually until a tax of $40 a ton would prevail on paper selling for more than $90.

"My proposed amendment is designed not so much to raise revenue," said Mr. Hitchcock, "as it is to make it unprofitable for paper manufacturers to charge exorbitant prices for news print paper.

"The price of news print paper has been very stable for several years until recently, selling around two cents a pound at the mills. There has been an increase in the consumption of paper in the last two years for two reasons. First the great increase in circulation arising from the war, and more recently, the increased volume of advertising due to prosperity. The result is that all surplus stock of paper has practically disappeared.

"The mills are making about 6,500 tons a day and we are importing 1,200 tons a day from Canada, but this does not meet the demand. The result is that manufacturers whose product is not fully contracted for are taking advantage of the situation to sell paper at exorbitant figures. While the great bulk of news print paper is selling at two cents a pound under existing contracts, all new sales are bringing from four to five cents a pound.

"Many newspapers that are paying $40 a ton for their regular supply are paying $60 a ton for any surplus they need, and any newspaper so unfortunate as to have its contracts expire is being compelled to pay from $80 to $90 a ton for its whole supply, which is ruinous."

sixty presidents and the managers approved the draft. Some slight additions to the phraseology are to be made and the final draft presented at another meeting tomorrow morning. From that meeting the report is expected to be taken to President Wilson. It was said tonight this will be the final report of the executives.

Issue Up to Workers.

"It puts the issue squarely up to the men," was the way one official phrased it.

The crisis in the situation is expected by noon tomorrow when the president has an engagement to see the brotherhood leaders.

Some of the executives said that while the proposal would not give the more than 20 per cent increases in wages provided for in effect in President Wilson's plan, it probably would give an increase of over 10 per cent. The proposal in its tentative form covered three typewritten pages. After the vote several of the executives made suggestions which the committee of eight probably will include in the final draft.

Throughout the discussion the executives took the position that the question of the eight-hour day was entirely one of wages rather than of principles. They said tonight they never had voted formally on President Wilson's plan as a whole, but that all of their discussion had shown that it could not be accepted in its entirety. The plan now agreed on will be the first presented by the executives since the negotiations began.

Leaders of the brotherhoods could not be reached tonight for discussion of the railroads' proposals, but among the men the sentiment was plainly against the idea of arbitration. The fact, however, that the railroads have made a proposal was taken as an encouraging sign that this might form the basis for further negotiations. One of them said as a consequence he expected the discussion to continue until the middle of next week or possibly longer.

Brotherhoods May Accept.

Although the railroad presidents would not attempt to forecast how their counter proposition would be received by the men, some of them were inclined to believe the brotherhoods would decide that much had been conceded, and that it would be a losing fight to hold out for their original demands.

Heads of the four railroad brotherhoods went to the white house today and informed President Wilson that under no circumstances could they hold their committee of 640 here after tomorrow night. The men, they said, were demanding that they obtain some definite answer from the railroad heads on President Wilson's plan already accepted by them, or they be permitted to go home and prepare for a strike. Everything was declared to be in readiness for a walk-out whenever the committee of 640 gives the word.

The president is understood to have given the men no definite promise as to what he would do. He made an appointment with them for noon tomorrow, however, and shortly after they left the white house sent for three of the railroad executives to advise them of what had happened.

The railroad heads insist, as they have from the beginning of negotiations, that it is increased pay and not a shorter work-day that the employees really desire. To grant them the shorter basic day at the present, it is contended, would mean an additional expenditure of $52,000,000.

Would Welcome Strike.

It has been well known since the presidents came here that many of them would welcome a strike. Some of them have pointed out that in their opinion submission in the present crisis would weaken discipline on their lines and that it would only be a short time until the trainmen's demands are followed by similar ones of other employees. Many of them feel that a strike could last only a few days at the longest, and the more important systems would have little trouble handling the mails and milk trains and supplying the larger cities with foodstuffs.

The railroad executives virtually dismissed from all consideration today questions of freight rate increases and of methods of insuring settlement of future disputes. They centered attention on the two propositions of the eight-hour days and the arbitration of wages under it.

Statements were issued tonight by President Howard Elliott, of the New Haven, and R. H. A. Iashlon, of the Chicago and Northwestern. Mr. Elliott said he hoped a real solution would be found for the situation "rather than that it should be settled off-hand and solely in the interest of 400,000 who are now pressing their demands."

President Iashton said that in 1900 the amounts of wages paid train employees for each 1,000 tons of freight moved one mile was 56.4 cents while in 1914 it was 61 cents, an increase of 23 per cent.

The conference committee of managers made public several telegrams from commercial organizations and indivfduals supporting their insistence upon arbitration of labor disputes.

Brotherhood Leaders Determined.

It was a determined quartet from the brotherhoods that visited the president today to read their ultimatum. On Wednesday evidence of unrest among the committee of 640 became so apparent that their leaders considered the situation grave and it required their best efforts to prevent a vote on a proposal to withdraw from the negotiations immediately.

Reports of this situation stirred the white house to such an extent that Judge Chambers, of the federal board of mediation and arbitration, was sent to the brotherhood heads by the president to urge them to restrain their men from taking any hasty step which might wreck all chances of an amicable settlement. The judge is said to have told the men previously that an answer from the railroad heads probably would be forthcoming by last night, or today at the latest. This news quieted the insurgents for a time, but today when no answer came the insurrection broke out anew. Then the brotherhood heads, believing the situation almost hopeless, communicated with the president their desire to see him.

Upon reaching the white house they informed the president frankly that the men did not believe the railroad heads were giving them a "square deal." They pointed to the long delays that have ensued since the arrival of the committee of 640 from New York, a week ago, as a climax to their arguments, producing such called "back-fire" telegrams which they averred railroad heads were sending out urging their agents to have citizens wire the president at the railroads' expense urging him to stand firm for arbitration of the differences. Their ultimatum followed.

Wilson Plainly Displeased.

The president is said to have replied that he knew of the telegrams, and to have been plainly displeased. The possibility of a strike was discussed, it is understood, and the men left the white house greatly pleased with their reception, but extremely pessimistic over the outlook.

Further than declaring the situation was unchanged and that they had received no concrete proposal from the railroads, the brotherhood heads had nothing to say after leaving the white house. They returned to the employees' hall, where the men still were in session, but what transpired has been kept secret. Adjournment until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning was soon taken.

The men declined to discuss any phase of the situation, although one or two of them intimated that they had been given no details as to the negotiations at the white house. At their hotels they no longer stood in groups about the lobbies, and hints were dropped guardedly that they would not have use for their reservations after tomorrow night.

W. G. Lee, head of the trainmen's brotherhood, gave out carbon copies of one of the so-called "back-fire" telegrams which had been forwarded here from a brotherhood member in Spokane. It was signed with the name of a Northern Pacific superintendent and addressed to one of the road's agents. Besides urging the agent to have citizens telegraph the president in favor of arbitration, the message said the cost of the telegrams would be taken from the station money and charged to the railroad's account.

Later, A. B. Garrettson produced a telegram from one of the brotherhood men in Grand Forks, N. D., which he said declared a Great Northern agent there had received instructions not only to obtain "back-fire" messages, but also to urge upon prospective signers that arbtiartion would not only mean defeat of a strike, but also prevent an increase in freight rates.

One of the leaders said tonight that in the event of a strike being called crews hauling trains with supplies for soldiers on the Mexican border, a limited number of passenger and express trains and, possibly, some milk trains would be permitted to continue work.

HUGHES MAKES APPEAL TO WYOMING VOTERS

Cheyenne, Wyo., August 25.—Charles E. Hughes tonight addressed an audience at Frontier Park here on the importance of upbuilding American industries to meet European competition after the war. This, he said, could not be done under a tariff for revenue only, but could be accomplished under a protective tariff such as the republican party proposed.

Mr. Hughes spoke to an audience that shivered in the cold night air, notwithstanding heavy wraps and overcoats. The nominee in beginning emphasized the fact that he represented a reunited party.

"We have set aside our differences in order that we may achieve great national aims," Mr. Hughes said.

"These aims are so high that they transcend every possibility of difference. I come as the spokesman of an historic party, reconsecrated to its best ideals and pledged to the service of this great nation at an extremely critical time.

"The upbuilding of American industry lies at the very foundation of the future of the United States. It can never be done under an administration that frames its tariff for revenue only."

Mr. Hughes reiterated his declaration that he favored the appointment only of competent, experienced men to the diplomatic service. He also assailed the administration's foreign policy and cited its course toward Mexico as "a conspicuous example of what we ought not to do."

VIRGINIA QUARANTINE AGAINST CHILD DISEASE

Richmond, Va., August 25.—Dr. Ennion G. Williams, state health commissioner, this morning sent to railroads and steamship lines operating in and out of Virginia bundles of placards to be posted far and near, warning the "traveling public" of this state's quarantine against infantile paralysis, which went into effect at 12:01 a. m. today.

"No person under 16 years of age," the proclamation says, "shall enter the state of Virginia or any territorial division thereof from the states of New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania unless such person be a resident of Virginia.

"Residents of Virginia under 16 years, now in the states of New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania, may return to their usual place of residence in Virginia if uninfected and unexposed to infantile paralysis, but will be subject to two weeks' quarantine at their destination.

"The transportation or individual, transporting any one in violation of this quarantine, will be jointly liable with the quarantined person, and both are subject to penalty for attempting to enter Virginia."

CALVIN IS ELECTED TO HEAD VETERANS

Thomasville Chosen as Reunion City for 1917—Rebel Yell Rings Out as Veterans Parade.

Americus, Ga., August 25.—(Special.) The long line of veterans, official ladies and citizens brought the reunion to a climax today when the parade circled and passed in review before the newly elected commander, Major Martin V. Calvin, of Waycross, and the retiring commander, Henry T. Davenport, of Americus. Each brigade passed the band and the rebel yell joined "Dixie" in high enthusiasm. Thomasville was chosen as the reunion city for 1917. Augusta extended an invitation.

The brigade commanders were re-elected. They are: Eastern, General J. A. Thomas; north Georgia, General M. C. Martin; south Georgia, Major W. J. Horsley; western, General L. W. Mobley; cavalry, General G. W. Gillmore.

Resolutions were adopted thanking Americus for the cordial entertainment of the largest reunion in the history.

Parade Two Miles Long.

The grand parade, over two miles in length, brought the reunion to a climax this morning. The hosts of gray warriors, numbering over seven hundred, which is the largest attendance in the history of the organizations begun eighteen years ago, bore up well under the blistering rays of the sun and formed with their respective brigades and the artillery. Grand Marshal Walter T. Maynard led the long line of veterans, official ladies, and hundreds of visitors and citizens.

The parade began to move at 10:30 o'clock, and every automobile was ornamented with the stars and bars, draped with the stars and stripes, symbolic of the confederacy and a reunited nation.

After the grand marshal was the band, followed by the official ladies of the Georgia division. Then came Commander Henry T. Davenport, of the Georgia division, and his staff, followed the colors of the division and many battle-scarred flags carefully saved from the war between the states.

The ladies of the eastern brigade led that squad, with General J. A. Thomas commanding, followed by General W. C. Martin, commanding the North Georgia brigade, and the ladies; General W. J. Horsley, of Arlington, commanding the South Georgia brigade; General L. W. Mobley, commanding the western brigade, and General Gillmore, commanding the cavalry brigade. The Red Cross nurses came next, followed by the official ladies and the A. S. Cutts Camp of Sons of Veterans, who are hosts of the reunion.

Guests at Barbecue.

The main portion of the morning business session was consumed with the election of officers and selecting the next place of meeting.

The veterans were guests at a huge barbecue, and with a short session, when Miss Lorene Roberts, of Albany, recited, the reunion came to a close with the song "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

At the home of Mrs. Eugene A. Hawkins, on Church street, a reception was tendered the official ladies by the Council of Safety chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Numbers of veterans visited the national cemetery at Andersonville during the day, and many for the first time saw the site of the famous Andersonville prison, where history has placed a conspicuous figure in the person of Captain Henry Wirz, who was executed. The monument in Andersonville to Wirz created much attention among the gray heroes.

The formal close of the program came with the Sons of Veterans' dance at the Rylander building Friday night. Many veterans joined in this event.

GOV. HENDERSON SUED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Montgomery, Ala., August 25.—Attorney General Logan H. Martin today filed suit in the city court to force Governor Henderson to approve the expenses incurred by the attorney general in the development of the impeachment case against Sheriff Daniel, of Russell county. It is a clash between the governor and the attorney general in which the authority of the attorney general is questioned. The governor contends that the attorney general could not spend money without his consent, and the impeachment proceedings were instituted without this.

Mrs. McAdoo Ill.

Spring Lake, N. J., August 25.—Mrs. William G. McAdoo, wife of the secretary of the treasury and a daughter of President Wilson, who has been ill at her home here, is suffering a slight attack of scarlet fever, it was learned tonight, but her condition is not serious.

something and was greatly depressed. Last Friday she told me the story.

"Some time ago, shortly after the treatment was begun, Mrs. Adams told me that she went to the doctor's office. He placed her on his table and gave her a treatment. Then he forced her to submit to his advances.

"I knew nothing of this until last Friday. My wife told me then, and if what she says is true, she is certainly justified in her action.

"For two days after she told me the story she was crying. I did all that I could to get her to visit her father in Nashville and gave her the money to go on. I thought that if she got away it would do her a lot of good. For some reason she refused to go.

His Wife Kept Silent.

According to Mr. Adams, his wife, after relating to him the story of her relations with Captain Spratling, told him that following the act, she had threatened to tell her husband.

"She told me," stated Mr. Adams, "that Spratling had told her not to do it, as it would only result in publicity and would hurt her more than it would him. For this reason, she remained silent until the matter became such a nightmare that she sobbed out the whole story to me."

"When I left home at 5 o'clock Friday morning," stated Mr. Adams, "my wife was still asleep. I haven't seen her since. She must have left soon after and caught the Macon train."

Mr. Adams lived with his wife and three children at 69 Lovejoy street. Three little boys, the oldest about seven, were left at the house alone. The little fellows knew that something had happened, but they didn't know what it was.

"Mamma has gone to Macon," stated the oldest, "and papa is working up town. Mamma left us this morning."

Mrs. Adams arrived in the Macon camp at 11:30 o'clock Friday morning. The shooting occurred a few minutes later.

Captain Edgar J. Spratling was an established specialist in Atlanta. His offices were in the Empire building. For the past eight years he had been the medical director for the Empire Life Insurance company. Eye, ear, nose and throat formed his particular branch of the profession.

As a line officer of the Georgia Fifth, he was considered one of the most efficient. He was very popular with the men of his company and with the entire regiment.

According to Captain Stokes, a brother officer, Captain Spratling had given up his profession until the time when he would leave the military service.

The body will be brought to Atlanta today and taken to Patterson's undertaking establishment.

Dr. Spratling's body left Macon early Saturday morning and will arrive here at 6:25 at the Terminal station. It is accompanied by a military escort. There will be a military funeral and the body will be taken to Opelika, Ala., Dr. Spratling's old home, for interment.

Wife Is Not Told.

Mrs. Spratling has not been told that her husband was shot by another woman. All she was told was that Captain Spratling had been killed accidentally. Members of the family have kept the news from her. She has been prostrated ever since hearing of her husband's death.

Miss Ruth Roberts, a relative of the family, and Captain Spratling's bookkeeper, stated that Mrs. Adams' name appeared on Dr. Spratling's books a number of times.

The Spratlings had no children. Captain Spratling is survived by his widow, who was Miss Clara Fletcher, of Opelika, Ala., and by two brothers, one of Atlanta and the other a medical director of the Norfolk navy yards.

Husband Will Go to Macon.

Mr. Adams stated Friday that as soon as he could arrange for the care of his three children, he would leave the city and go to Macon to be with his wife. He intends staying until the affair is settled.

Captain Spratling recently spent some time in Atlanta on recruiting duty, and proved successful in this line.

In Nine Hours Carlstrom, Carrying a Passenger, Flies Nearly 770 Miles

Newport News, Va., August 25.—Victor Carlstrom, flying a twin motor combination land and water machine here today, set a world's record for distance in one day, carrying one passenger. He made 661 miles in 8 hours and 40 minutes. Captain Baldwin, head of the Atlantic Coast Aeronautical station, stated that Carlstrom would receive $7,000 for his flight. Carlstrom attempted to make 700 miles in ten hours but carburetor trouble delayed him nearly an hour, while an hour and twenty minutes was consumed in putting gasoline in the tanks. The machine was brought to a stop only twice.

The flights were made from the local station to Fisherman's Island and back, the distance each way being a fraction over 25 miles. Because of a heavy fog it was necessary for the aviator to steer by compass.

Unless Carlstrom's record is broken, the Curtis aviation cup will be awarded the Athletic Coast Aeronautical station. The cup was won last year with a flight of less than 500 miles.

Philadelphia courts last year forced 3,832 men to support their wives.

Shot to Death in Macon

CAPTAIN EDGAR J. SPRATLING.

Capt. Spratling Was Witness In State Sanitarium Probe

During the recent session of the Georgia general assembly Captain Spratling, on leave from duty at the mobilization camp at Macon, appeared before the house committee on the state sanitarium, spoke at length and answered innumerable questions relative to the management of such institutions.

He spoke as an alienist and a lunacy expert, qualifying himself so to speak by stating that for a number of years he was a member of the staff of the Matteawan hospital for the insane at New York, and also for many years he was connected with similar institutions in Massachusetts. He declared that he was for lifetime a registered lunacy expert in the state of Massachusetts and also in New York city and state.

Because of the arduous nature of lunacy work, he said, he quit it, and came to Atlanta to engage in the general practice of medicine.

"The work of the alienist," Dr. Spratling told the committee, "is so trying, and there are so many angles to it—so many branches, and it is so intricate—that I saw it was wearing me out. I also saw that in the end, if I continued to follow it, that I could get nowhere. The strain was too great for me; the results would not compensate it. So I quit."

Dr. Spratling gave the committee a great deal of sound advice and helpful information about insane asylums in general, though he said he was not familiar with Georgia's particular one, and it was largely due to his advice that the committee refrained from recommending special investigation of charges made against the Milledgeville institution's management by former inmates.

JEALOUSY DROVE WOMAN TO KILL SPRATLING

lumbus, Ga., where she was last employed, in order to join him in Macon, when he came to Camp Harris, with the Fifth.

Mrs. Monk is a woman of thirty, perhaps a brunette, plump of figure, animated and a stylish dresser. She willingly consented to the examination by the military authorities, and offered to exert herself in any fashion which might avail evidence bearing on Captain Spratling's death. She suggested that a search be made for a number of letters she said were in his pocket the night previous to the shooting, averring that she knew them to be missives from his slayer, as she had read one of them.

"I told him," she explained, "that it was unsafe to carry them in his pocket, as some one at the camp might get hold of them. 'Never you mind,' he told me, 'these letters will be taken care of all right; don't let them worry you.'

"Mrs. Adams and his wife were the only two women the captain ever mentioned to me. The woman in Atlanta wrote him once saying that his wife was almost dead and that she would soon be out of the way; then there would be no obstacle in the way of her plan to establish the apartment in Macon."

"He Had No Defense."

"He was my family physician and took advantage of me; if he had lived he would never have defended himself, for he had no defense. The only mistake I made was that I did not tell my husband sooner of my condition, but nobody ever knows what to do when they are in the trouble that I have been in for several months," said Mrs. H. C. Adams tonight to a Constitution reporter at the Bibb county jail.

"When all the testimony comes out I think they will say that I am justified in doing what I did. My husband has walked the floor for nights and has been a perfectly crazy man since I told him about my trouble. And, you know, any man has to put up with a whole lot to stand what he did. The only blame he puts on me is that he did not know it sooner."

Anxious About Children.

When handed a press report from Atlanta stating that the reporters had found no one at her home except her three children, she seemed anxious and exclaimed: "Why, before I left this morning I promised to give my next door neighbor anything she wished if she would look after my children. I know she did look after them, for I have some good neighbors and they have been very nice to me."

"It is true," she said, "about my husband trying to get me to go off somewhere to visit relatives. He has been so worried about me. And what man wouldn't be about his wife in my condition and me about half crazy with the trouble that's been brought on me by Dr. Spratling?"

"I was so excited and nervous and I knew I must do something right away or I would back out, for I am so tender-hearted. He was a slick man, and I knew he would get away and leave the country if he saw me before I saw him. I asked several soldiers I met, after being directed to his tent, if he still had a mustache. It has been some time since I saw him and I was afraid I would get the wrong man.

Afraid He Would Escape.

"When I got to his tent he and another soldier were sitting down at a table. I recognized him, and, looking him in the eye, I told him that I wanted to see him. He must have recognized me, for he began to get up from the table and, knowing how slick he was and that he would run away, I pulled the pistol and fired."

When Jailer McCommons came in with a message from the coroner and asked if she wanted to go to the inquest at 8 o'clock she replied, "No, if I don't have to go I will stay here."

Looking around the room, she said to a reporter: "This is an awful place to have to stay in. I have been so used to the front porch at home with the children; but I guess I will just have to wait till I am justified, and I know I will be when the evidence is all in. There may be others besides myself who will swear against him at the proper time."

Killed While at Mess.

Captain Spratling was shot and killed while under the fly of his tent at the mess hour.

"You have ruined my home," Mrs. Adams exclaimed, as she pulled the trigger of a .38 caliber revolver. The bullet entered the captain's body just below the neck, severing the jugular vein. He reeled backward and fell over a guy rope. A second bullet that was fired entered the captain's mouth.

Lieutenant Samuel A. Kysor, of Captain Spratling's company, grasped the woman's arm and disarmed her.

Major Wheeler, of the Second regiment; Major Harrold, brigade surgeon; Lieutenant Winn, surgeon of the Second regiment, and Captain Moore, were less than 50 feet away when the shots were fired. They rushed to the side of the wounded officer, but Captain Spratling was dead when they reached him. The flag over brigade headquarters was half-masted at 12:35 p. m.

Killing Premeditated.

Later developments indicate, officers assert, that the killing was premeditated; that Mrs. Adams came from her home in Atlanta, determined to take the officer's life. Her husband was at work in a laundry there when she left.

Mrs. Adams arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning over the Southern railway. It was her first visit to Macon. She inquired of a private whom she saw on the station platform how she could reach the mobilization camp. He directed her.

Mrs. Adams made several inquires of the soldiers at the camp as to where she could find Captain Spratling. She was directed, and finally reached his tent. She had never seen him in a soldier's uniform before, she stated afterwards, and made doubly sure that she was right, hence asked him if his name was Captain Spratling. He replied in the affirmative.

The captain was seated at mess with Second Lieutenant S. A. Kysor. He arose as she addressed him. "Captain, you have ruined my home," she said. Without uttering another word, the woman drew a pistol that she had secreted in the folds of her dress and pulled the trigger as she leveled it at his head. The shooting was over in a flash. Lieutenant Kysor was on his feet as the second shot was fired.

Captain Spratling crawled from the guy ropes under the tent, where he died, his head being propper on one elbow.

Her Nerves Collected.

To guards who were detailed to watch the woman, Mrs. Adams remarked: "Take me away; this is embarrassing to a woman."

Brigadier General Walter A. Harris requested the sheriff to take charge of Mrs. Adams. When the deputies arrived the woman asked for a drink of water. She was given a glass, and swallowed the contents. Then she climbed into an automobile as coolly as if nothing had happened, and was driven to the county jail, where she was booked on a charge of murder.

Her nerves were still collected when she reached the jail. She asked for a piece of paper and pencil and wrote the following message, which was sent:

"H. C. Adams, Piedmont Laundry, Atlanta, Ga.—Daddy, I am in jail. Do what you can.

(Signed) "MATTIE."

Mrs. Adams is of fine figure, with brown hair, and was well dressed. She attracted no more attention than the thousands of other visitors who go to Camp Harris. Officers and men who saw her as she approached Captain Spratling's tent say that her conduct did not excite suspicion.

"Took Advantage of Me."

Not until several hours after the shooting did the seriousness of her crime dawn upon Mrs. Adams. She became hysterical in her cell at the county jail and called for her husband repeatedly. He is expected here during the night.

In the jail tonight Mrs. Adams talked freely of her relations with Captain Spratling. She said that she would tell more after her husband arrived.

"Captain Spratling was our family physician and a smooth man," she said. "He took advantage of me. I cannot tell all, but women will understand."

The body of Captain Spratling was prepared for burial at an undertaking establishment here late today and will be taken to Atlanta under a military escort as soon as the coroner's inquest is held.

Funeral in Atlanta.

The funeral will be held in Atlanta and the burial in Opelika, Ala.

Captain Spratling was born in Chambers county, Alabama, April 16, 1872. He was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, of Baltimore, and practiced medicine in Forsyth, Ga., several years. He studied for some time in Berlin, Germany. He moved to Atlanta about eight years ago and opened his offices in the Empire Life building. His wife is at home critically ill. The body is at Hart's undertaking establishment in Macon.

Captain Spratling's commission ranks from October 11, 1915. His military record was honorable and his character was believed above reproach by all his fellow officers.

At the coroner's inquest tonight into the murder of Captain Spratling the jury held that Mrs. Adams fired the shot that killed the officer and directed that she be held to the county grand jury on a charge of murder. The government made no effort to assume jurisdiction in the case.

"NEWTHOT" BISHOP CONVICTED OF FRAUD

San Francisco, Cal., August 25.—Dr. Newo Newi New, self-styled bishop of the Newthot church, which he organized, was convicted by a jury in the United States district court here today on three out of seven counts of an indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud. Mrs. Marie Tully Graham, his associate in the church, was acquitted. The jury recommended clemency. Sentence was deferred. On the witness stand Dr. New said he had no idea how old he was as he did not reckon time in years or days and carried a watch only because he had to come down to the plane of ordinary human beings occasionally.

THE INSTRUMENT OF QUALITY

Sonora

CLEAR AS A BELL

What has made it what it is?

ADVERTISING?

No—The Sonora is extensively and well advertised, but the advertising has been kept within rational limits.

APPEARANCE?

No—A phonograph is bought because it sounds right—not merely because it looks right. The Sonora is extremely handsome as an article of furniture, but this would never account for its success.

EXAGGERATED CLAIMS?

No—The Sonora is sold for what it is—not for what it pretends to be. The belief that a real sale is made on any other basis than by satisfying the customer is dead as far as Sonora is concerned.

Tone? Beauty? Satisfaction?

Yes—Most emphatically yes. The Sonora claims the supremacy for tonal beauty. This claim was substantiated at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, where the highest score for tone was given the Sonora.

Ten unrivalled models: $45 and upwards.

Come in and hear this wonderful phonograph.

ROME BOOSTERS INDORSE "FACTS ABOUT GEORGIA"

Rome, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—A committee, headed by Dr. George B. Smith, has been appointed by Wright Willingham, president of the Rome Chamber of Commerce, to see that Rome and Floyd county have proper representation in the forthcoming book on Georgia, to be issued by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

The committee has begun actively to take hold of the matter and expects to put in the classified section of the book a splendid two or three detailed page, showing for the city of Rome. The book, "Facts About Georgia," is expected to go to press within a very short time.

BAPTIST TABERNACLE REVIVAL IS POPULAR

The revival at the Baptist Tabernacle continues to grow in interest and attendance. Walter E. Rogers, for many years an evangelic singer, has been secured to conduct the song service. Evangelist B. L. Ayers will conduct a special service Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, his subject to be "The Second Coming of Christ." There will be services each night. The song service begins promptly at 7:30 p. m.

SPLENDID ENROLLMENT FOR TECH INDICATED

Enrollment in the Georgia School of Technology will be greatly increased in the coming year, according to indications given by the applications for rooms in the dormitories. More applications have already been received than were in when the books closed on September 15, last year.

The power station is progressing, and four new boilers with all up-to-date appliances have been installed. Work is necessarily slow, however, because there are not funds available with which to hurry it.

THREE WILL GRADUATE FROM THEOLOGY SCHOOL

Convocation exercises Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the Wesley Memorial church will close the first summer session of the Candler School of Theology of Emory university.

The services will be somewhat in the nature of a graduation, since three young ministerial students will be presented with diplomas. Rev. W. W. Pinson, a distinguished divine of Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the board of missions of the Southern Methodist church, will deliver the address of the occasion.

D. K. Pegues and Olin Ray will receive the degree of bachelor of divinity and J. B. Bracco will obtain a diploma of graduation.

The success of the summer school passed all expectations. There were eighty students enrolled and a number of pastors of the southern church have spent their time here studying.

This is the last time that the school will be in the Wesley Memorial church. When the next session begins on September 27, the theological department will be installed in its handsome quarters on the new campus of Emory university in Druid Hills.

Collier Thanks Friends.

I wish to express my heartfelt appreciation to my friends and supporters for their splendid help in the contest just closed. Let us now forget all that was unpleasant and with a singleness of purpose strive to make Atlanta one among the progressive cities of America. After a month's rest in the mountains I will return to the city and devote my time to organizing the chief of construction department according to my ideas, along modern lines.

Again thanking you all for your splendid help, I remain your obedient servant. H. L. COLLIER.

NEW RATES NEEDED, SAYS R. R. WITNESS

He Testifies That Georgia Cities, as Well as Railroads Themselves, Need Proposed Rates.

That Rome, Dalton, Chattanooga and Atlanta will be materially benefited in their relative competitive positions with Nashville and the Virginia cities through the operation of the proposed intrastate Georgia rates was the closing statement of Randall Clifton, assistant freight traffic manager for the Southern railway, when he finished his testimony on class rates from a number of Georgia cities at the Friday morning session of the rate hearing before the Georgia railroad commission.

Clifton Again on Stand.

When Mr. Clifton resumed his testimony Friday, he sought to show that the principle that where a continuous line fixes the rate to a destination for a more circuitous route, the more circuitous line is governed only if it is less than 15 per cent longer than the line fixing the rate—that this principle is recognized as definitely fixed by the interstate commerce commission. It was agreed, however, that, even granting this, the Georgia commission would not necessarily be bound to the observance of this rule.

Mr. Clifton then entered into the completion of his explanation of the proposed class rates from Rome and Dalton.

He stated that the proposed intrastate rates in Georgia from Rome, Dalton, Chattanooga and Atlanta to the more important points in south Georgia would greatly improve the competitive relationship between these north Georgia points as with Nashville and the Virginia cities, this improvement being brought about through an advance in the interstate rate from the out-of-the-state cities in the recent interstate adjustment, and by a reduction in rates from the Georgia points to south Georgio points through the proposed Georgia intrastate adjustment.

Other Carriers Consulted.

Commissioner Hillyer asked whether the adjustment of interstate rates, effective last January, had been arrived at through consulting the views of the southern carriers only, or whether the views of the carriers generally throughout the United States had been consulted.

Mr. Clifton replied that the views of such carriers other than those in the south, whose business was affected by an adjustment of rates in the southeast had been consulted. These roads, he said, included the lines of the trunk line territory of the east, the central freight association territory of the west and north and the lines operating to and in connection with the Mississippi river crossings, but did not include such roads as those of the far west, whose territory of operation was too distant for them to be affected by the adjustment.

Cross-Examined by Wimbish.

When Mr. Wimbish took the witness for cross-examination, he asked for an explanation of the extent of agreement between the carriers in working out both the interstate adjustment and the proposed intrastate adjustment, having in view the idea of showing that these adjustments are the result of an agreement between the carriers which would eliminate all competition between the several railroads.

Mr. Clifton outlined the organization of the so-called "fourth section" committee of the carriers which had worked out the interstate adjustment, showing the lines represented, and went over the same ground in connection with the working out of the proposed intrastate adjustment in Georgia, stating that the committee to work out the Georgia adjustment came to Atlanta for this work last March, although they had been doing some work along this line ever since the winter of 1914-15.

Conference Determined Rates.

Mr. Clifton admitted, as Chairman Candler, of the commission, himself suggested, that the proposed Georgia rates had been worked out through cooperation between the several petitioning carriers, but denied emphatically that there was any idea among the carriers of eliminating competition. He stated that it would have been impossible to arrive at a feasible scale in any other way than by such conferences.

Using for illustration the proposal of the carriers to allow the A., B. & A. to fix the rate for the other carriers from Atlanta to Thomasville, by reason of its being the direct continuous line, Mr. Wimbish wanted to know whether the roads had not decided to allow one line of continuous mileage to fix the rate, no matter how circuitous that line might be. Mr. Clifton stated that it is true that the carriers propose to observe the mileage of the continuous line, but that they proposed to depart from this principle where the competitive conditions are such as to demand a departure, and that such proposed departures would frequently result in reductions in rates.

In reply to further questioning, Mr. Clifton stated that all the petitioning lines propose to adopt the scale now proposed as a substitute for the present mileage scale of the Georgia commission for Class C roads, and that this proposed substitute scale is the result only of the best judgment of the carriers as to what would constitute a proper scale under the proposed adjustment.

If you come with a scale plan agreed to by all the carriers, asked Mr. Wimbish, what chance would there be for competition between these carriers if the proposed scale were adopted?

Mr. Clifton replied that the carriers assume that whatever rates the Georgia commission may see fit to adopt will be the maximum which the carriers may charge, and that there will be opportunity for any road to charge as far below that maximum rates as it may see fit, thus providing plenty of room for competition. He further stated that the carriers did not conceive that whatever rate might be decided upon would be for all time, but that it would be subject to change through the regular methods whenever conditions might arise demanding a change.

Mr. Callaway asked Mr. Clifton if it were not true that the carriers, in asking their adjustment, started with a mandatory maximum scale fixed by the commission, and that when they asked increases they were still where they started in respect to conditions for competition between the roads. Mr. Clifton said that this is the case.

Mr. Wimbish asked another series of questions to show that the understanding between the carriers contemplated not only the harmonizing of rates, but also the elimination of competition between the carriers. Mr. Clifton maintained his former position that there was no thought of eliminating competitive conditions, and that the proposed rates will not eliminate such conditions, nor competition itself.

To Increase Revenue.

Mr. Wimbish then asked a series of questions to bring out that the purpose of the carriers in asking the proposed adjustment is two-fold—first, to bring about harmony between rates, and, second, to increase the revenue of the carriers.

Mr. Clifton admitted that this had been the position outlined by the carriers from the start, and that they believed they need and are entitled to some increase in revenue, and will subsequently place witnesses on the stand to substantiate this position.

Mr. Wimbish asked Mr. Clifton if he construed the long and short haul principle to mean that the carriers are authorized to increase the rates at the terminal points beyond reason in order to smooth out the inequalities at intermediate points.

Mr. Clifton replied that to bring about a proper adustment required a consideration of both the terminal points and the intermediate points, but that he did not think the carriers would be authorized to charge unreasonable rates.

Do you think that the reasonableness of the rates between Atlanta and Macon should not be arrived at first before considering the conditions at the intermediate points? Mr. Wimbish asked.

Mr. Clifton replied that if there is an inequality between the rates from Atlanta to Macon and the rates to the intermediates, either the terminal rates or the intermediates ought to be changed, and that due consideration should be given both to the rate to the terminal and to the intermediates.

Shippers Score Point.

Mr. Wimbish then desired to know whether the rates from Nashville did not allow Nashville to trade further into Georgia territory than the proposed rates from Savannah would allow Savannah to trade.

Mr. Clifton admitted that this is substantially correct.

Mr. Wimbish then asked whether discrimination against intermediates had been removed in this instance; if there was no competitive condition at Macon to be considered. Mr. Clifton stated that there was a competitive condition at Macon which was observed.

If the long and short haul principle is observed between Nashville and Macon, asked Mr. Wimbish, why not between Atlanta and Macon?

Mr. Clifton replied that the proposed rate is low enough to meet the demands of competition at Macon, in so far as it related to Atlanta.

Mr. Wimbish wanted to know if it had not been proposed to increase the rate to intermediates as well as to terminals, and Mr. Clifton replied that in instances where it is proposed to increase the scale it involves an increase to all points to which the scale would apply.

Mr. Wimbish then asked Mr. Clifton another question regarding the relation of the rates between Atlanta and Macon and intermediate points and a warm discussion upon this phase ensued.

Mr. Wimbish asked Mr. Clifton if it was a fact that the reductions in the interstate rates from the west to points between Macon and Atlanta were immaterial.

Mr. Clifton denied that and stated that the rates to points like Griffin and Barnesville had been materially reduced and that even under the proposed advancing adjustment of the carriers for distances of 130 miles or less out of the principal shipping points, these immediate towns would still have an improved competitive condition and one altogether on a parity with Atlanta and Macon.

On the redirect examination by Mr. Callaway, Mr. Clifton said that to Barnesville, for instance, using first-class as illustrative, the rate from Louisville was reduced on January 1 of this year, under the interstate adjustment, 11 cents per 100 pounds, and that the rate to Atlanta was raised 9 cents, wherefore Barnesville's relation to Atlanta was improved 20 cents per 100 pounds. Mr. Clifton also said that the rate from Louisville, representing the west, to Griffin, had been reduced 7 cents per 100 pounds on first-class, and that the rate to Atlanta had been raised 9 cents, in view of which circumstances Griffin's relation to Atlanta had been improved by 16 cents per 100 pounds on first-class.

Reduction Very Material.

In response to a series of questions from Mr. Wimbish, Mr. Clifton claimed that the reductions were very material from both the west and the east to points between Macon and Atlanta and points between Atlanta and Augusta, as well as points between Atlanta and Columbus. He stated that the advances which are proposed under the intrastate revision for points within the 130-mile radius are entirely too small to be compared with the reductions which have been made under the interstate adjustment.

Mr. Wimbish put Mr. Clifton through a grilling with respect to the relation between Macon and Atlanta in the interstate rates. Mr. Wimbish asked Mr. Clifton whether he thought there was any such competition at Macon as to warrant the rates under the interstate adjustment, of if he though it was fair to carry rates from the west to Macon the same as to Atlanta, although Macon is approximately 100 miles further from the west than Atlanta.

Mr. Clifton answered that the interstate commerce commission had heard the case under which these rates were fixed and had decided that the conditions at Macon did warrant the carriers in applying lower rates to Macon from the west than to the intermediate points and had authorized the carriers to apply these rates. Mr. Clifton stated that, in his opinion, a rate to Macon from the west no higher than to Atlanta, although Macon was 100 miles from Atlanta, was not unfair to Atlanta or beyond the order of the commission.

Mr. Clifton also pointed out that there had been material reduction in the rates from the west to Griffin, Barnesville and other points between Macon and Atlanta.

Mr. Wimbish inquired of Mr. Clifton if it were not true that the interstate commerce commission had not authorized lower rates to be carried from New York and the east to Macon than to points intermediate to Macon, and Mr. Clifton stated that the interstate commerce commission had authorized the carriers to carry lower rates to Macon from the east than to intermediate points and that this was done.

Lower Rates for Macon.

Mr. Wimbish asked Mr. Clifton if he thought it was fair, under the conditions existing at Macon, to carry lower rates to Macon than to intermediate points.

Mr. Clifton stated that he thought it was fair, and that rates from the east to points intermediate to Macon had been very materially reduced in the 1916 adjustment.

Mr. Wimbish stated to the commission that the hearing before the interstate commerce commission was a one-sided affair, at which only the witnesses for the carriers were present; that the interstate commerce commission had heard only one side of it, and that their decision with reference to water competition at points like Augusta and other points in Georgia was not to be taken as a determination of that issue.

At the afternoon session G. S. Raines, general freight agent of the Seaboard Air Line, took the stand and explained the class rates from Elberton and from Athens. He outlined the proposed rates over the various lines serving these points to other points in the state.

ACCUSED OF SMUGGLING JEWELS WORTH $25,000

New York, August 25.—Charged with smuggling into this country jewels valued at $25,000, Fred Uffelman, landing baggage agent of the Norwegian-American steamship line, and Hans Edward Thompson, an employe of the company, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Houghton here today. Department of justice agents are investigating an additional charge that the men have been the principals in an "underground" system of mail communication between this country and Germany. In court no mention was made of the second charge.

The hearing, at the request of the prisoners' counsel, was postponed two weeks. The men were committed to the Tombs in default of $7,000 bail each.

According to testimony at the hearing before Special Deputy Surveyor of the Port Smyth, large quantities of mail were safely dispatched through the "underground" route from the local branch of the Deutsche Bank of Berlin to Copenhagen and thence to Germany. Mail from Germany was received in the same way.

Existence of the contraband mail system was confirmed at the hearing by Hugo Schmidt, representative of the Deutsche bank here. He admitted that Uffelman had acted as special mail messenger and that he had paid him $100 for his services.

The alleged conspirators are said to number a dozen. The arrest of six others, one a woman, is expected soon.

Government agents declare that besides breaking the customs and mail laws, the band violated neutrality regulations by obtaining false passports.

RUBLEE TO BE RETAINED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Washington, D. C., August 25.—President Wilson has decided to keep George Rublee on the federal trade commission by making another recess appointment as soon as congress adjourns and to renew the fight before the senate in December for Mr. Rublee's confirmation.

Since March, 1915, Mr. Rublee has been serving as a member of the commission without compensation, the senate allowing one session to pass without acting and finally rejecting the nomination because the nominee was personally obnoxious to Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, the republican leader.

Mr. Rublee tendered his resignation several weeks ago, but was urged by the president to withhold it.

Talbotton Railroad Leads Way in Paying State Tax for 1916

Comptroller General Wright yesterday morning received the first check for 1916 ad valorem taxes. The Talbotton railroad, the little road that has never killed a passenger, has the distinction of being the first to pay this year.

Following the signing of the order fixing the 1916 state tax rate by Governor Harris Monday night, bills aggregating slightly over $763,000 for corporation state taxes have been mailed out by the comptroller. The little Talbotton road was the first to respond, but the others are expected to follow in rapid fire order from now on and State Treasurer Speer will be kept busy taking in the money.

In addition to the $763,000 ad valorem taxes collected from the corporations September 1, Comptroller Wright is at this time also collecting the income taxes paid by the Georgia Railroad and Banking company, the Augusta and Savanah railroad, the Southwestern railroad and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, lessee of the Western and Atlantic, the state's road. The income taxes from these four roads amounts to $7,157.62, so the state will in the immediate future receive from the corporations $770,000. Needless to say, the money is badly needed.

SUSTAINS DEMURRER.

Judge Pendleton Rules for DuBose Egleston.

Judge John T. Pendleton, of the Fulton county superior court, yesterday sustained the defendant's demurrer to the petition by which DuBose Egleston sought to annul certain provisions of the will of his cousin, the late millionaire, Thomas Egleston.

DuBose Egleston was left out of the will, and he filed suit last Tuesday to have annulled those portions of it bequeathing $100,000 to a children's hospital to be built as a memorial to and bear the name of Mrs. Henrietta Egleston, the testator's late mother.

ALLEGED "TIGERS" HELD ON $300 BOND

The first case under the city's new prohibition ordinance appeared before Judge Johnson Friday afternoon. This new ordinance permits the recorder to fine in whisky cases as well as bind them over to the state courts.

U. S. McKinney, a colored boy, who cooks for Tumlin Bros., in the Hurt building, and a negro porter who had just reached the city on the Dixie Flyer, were caught by the N., C. & St. L. railroad yard man Thursday night. McKinney had five quarts of whisky and the porter had seventeen pints in a suitcase. Both boys ran when approached by the officer, and the porter escaped. The officer stated that he believes they are members of a gang that are making a practice of bringing whisky into the city by train and distributing to agents for sale. McKinney was fined $25 and bound over under $300 bond.

Bound Over on Bond.

Arthur Pope was bound over under $300 bond by Recorder Johnson Friday afternoon, cnarged with stealing tools, a generator and Remy magneto, on January 26 last from the garage of A. R. Almand, of 54 Edgewood avenue.

NO NECESSITY FOR A STRIKE.

The Washington Post, right on the scene of the battle ground between the railroads of the country and their 400,000 employees, reaches two interesting conclusions; first, that there is no necessity for a strike, because there is a way to compose the differences at stake; and, second, that the public is disposed to stand solidly behind President Wilson in his effort to bring about such settlement, because he has gone into the situation and knows what is necessary to be done in order to stop the strike movement. The Post says:

> The public knows that there is no necessity for a strike. Either side can give in, or both can concede something. Opinions will differ as to whether the president's plan is the best that could be evolved, but the public is disposed to stand solidly behind him, knowing that he has gathered all pertinent facts and carefully gauged the temper of both sides. It is evident that he has become convinced that there must be an eight-hour day or a strike. Hence he asks the railroads to concede the eight-hour day while a government commission is investigating the whole subject. Then, after the facts are ascertained, if either side is dissatisfied it may give notice of termination of this temporary arrangement, "with a view to instituting inquiry into suggested readjustments of pay or practice."

In the foregoing The Post has succinctly epitomized the best of public opinion regarding the strike situation.

There is not now, nor was there ever, any necessity for a strike of this sort which would throw business into chaos and bring distress and suffering upon millions and millions of inhabitants of the United States, reaching even into the remote rural districts.

That was why President Wilson took hold of it with a determination that it should not come. There is no law under which the president is authorized to intervene in matters of this kind, save the general law of the public weal. It was upon that ground alone that President Wilson took hold of the problem, and as usual he is upon the point of working it out through a combination of concession and arbitration, which will mean ultimate settlement upon a peace basis while traffic and business move on undisturbed.

President Wilson has taken hold of a threatened disaster and averted it. Notwithstanding it was an unnecessary one, there is no other man in the country who could have achieved that end.

There is nothing in all that he has done—and it has been much—which stands more to the credit of the man and his administration than this one thing—the prevention of a calamity which must have been more serious in its far-reaching results than a war with Mexico or a conflict with our friends, the Germans, across the Atlantic!

OPPORTUNITY IN OUR LAND.

Robert M. Pindell, Jr., vice president of the Southern Settlement and Development Organization, of Baltimore, Md., in an address at Waycross last Wednesday, which The Constitution publishes in part today, drove home to the land-owners of Georgia some cold, hard truths, and said some things which Georgians—regardless of land ownership—well might ponder. For instance, he said:

> "In my judgment there is no such thing in the south today as a truly satisfactory development which may go on and on and repeat itself here and there until these idle acres of yours are sold in the proper units to proper people, and are brought under cultivation in a successful agricultural program."

Stated another way, neither the south nor Georgia will ever attain a state of true "development" so long as individual landowners choose or are permitted to hold thousands upon thousands of the best soil in the region of the most favorable climatic conditions on earth, in the "raw" state, untilled, unproductive save as nature clothes them; or, if tilled, tilled in a slipshod, unsystematic, "devil-may-care" manner.

But Mr. Pindell's address is its own commentary; it needs no elucidation. The great truth is that this state is suffering sorely from lack of development, lack of more rural population of the right sort, lack of that intensive spirit which, throughout all time, wherever and whenever it has been applied, makes "two blades grow where grew only one before." And not until that day shall come, when that spirit shall receive state-wide recognition and be applied, shall Georgia come into her own. This applies, too, in a general way, to the entire rural south.

It is a fact, paradoxical as it may seem, that Georgia, one of the "original thirteen states"—one of the very oldest of the forty-eight—is one of the newest. Just a little travel affords the proof of this. Our "new northwest"—Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, the Dakotas and Wyoming, agriculturally—is in advance of us in point of agricultural development in proportion with agricultural advantages and possibilities. Those states, even, the newest of our agricultural states, are, according to authentic and official statistics, getting more out of the soil, in the way of beef, mutton, pork, fruits and forage crops, in proportion to what it is possible to get per acre or per square mile, than is Georgia or the group of states comprising the "old southeast."

It is not pleasant to say this. The plain truth often is not pleasant to contemplate; but it never did an injury and never will.

The land is here; the growing seasons are here; the soil is here; the best climate on the face of the globe is here—all beckoning, like Opportunity itself, to the purposeful man with progressive and intensive ideas, and the will to work with hand and brain to the betterment of himself and the glorification and emolument of the "new" southland.

The real development of the south, as Mr. Pindell says, however, must come through and by the owners of the land. And when these so-called "land barons" shall realize this, and profit by it, a different, a greater, and a richer south will quickly supplant the present.

COMING INTO OUR OWN.

Fifteen cent cotton, the highest price reached by the staple since 1910, is already here. Sixteen cent cotton is on the way. Not only that, it is coming to stay and to go still higher. It would not be surprising if, before there is a backward drop of any moment, it went up to somewhere around the record-breaking figures of the period immediately following the close of the civil war.

The south is at last coming into its own and coming rapidly, regardless of the continuance of the European war and of the doubtful termination of that conflict.

If the European conflict were to end tomorrow it would send cotton up in a more remarkable and more spectacular manner than the history of the market has ever recorded. It would add to the present price-making forces the enormous German, Austrian and Balkan demand which cannot now be supplied. It would mean record-breaking prices for the staple for two years to come, regardless of the size of the crop. Contracts for actual cotton would be made for delivery eighteen months hence, and the southern producer would be in the heyday of a prosperity he has scarcely known in a quarter of a century.

But the European war is not ended and nobody knows when it will end. It may go on for another year, or even two years, before national stubbornness and determination are broken and either side is brought to sue for peace.

In the light of this fact, the continued and persistent advance in the price of cotton is even the more remarkable. In other words, the prospective close of the European war, whenever it may come, is no factor in the present market.

The demand wholly apart from the millions of bales which Germany, Austria, Turkey and the Balkans would use, is responsible for the gratifying advance which is but a beginning of the south's coming prosperity.

Domestic consumption and new and more extended uses for cotton enter strongly as a factor into these interesting market conditions. Moreover, these factors will remain and persist; so that the close of the war will have a weight and effect of its own in sending up the price of cotton to almost unprecedented figures.

Thus, is the south coming into its own, not at the close of the European war, but even now—today. And we shall profit by and look back upon it in the measure that we continue, as we have well begun, to make our living here at home, and to build savings and investment accounts upon the profits from our cotton fields.

The Musical Bugs.

The Arkansas Democrat says that "round, black bugs, just the size of printed notes, according to the usually reliable Post-Dispatch, of St. Louis, have put the Alton, Ill., brass band out of business through their habits of alighting on the music and crawling around over the score. How is a hard-working musician to know which is a bona fide note and which is a bug, when both look alike? Inability of the Alton players to tell the difference led to the production of such weird tones and sour harmony that the open-air concerts have been postponed by unanimous consent of the populace. They will not be resumed until the bugs leave."

The Cool Week.

And still the editor of The Adams Enterprise finds somewhat to be thankful for:

"Cool week in August—that's the stuff.
And blest, indeed, appears our lot
Because it isn't cool enough
For the overcoat we haven't got!"

A Home Opinion.

"The old man's got an idea that he's needed in congress," said the Billville matron, "and I hope to goodness they'll send him there, as he never will be satisfied until he's in a place where he can sit around all day long and do next to nothin' at all!"

The Practical Side.

I.

I let the river have its will,
In quiet times delightin'.
(The river pays the grocery bill
When fish are bitin'.)

II.

I watch the bees lead busy lives,
Forevermore a-hummin'.
(The honey in the drippin' hives Means dollars comin'.)

III.

And so life goes from day to day—
That's all we're knowin' of it.
Even the beautiful must "pay"—
We're out for profit!

Proverbs of the Highway.

Thank the Lord that most of the deep rivers to cross are those we see in dreams.

Don't want a world so bright that we won't enjoy the glory that's waiting for us hereafter.

We spend lots o' time praying for Providence to help us, and it never occurs to us to surprise Providence by helping ourselves.

It's too great a compliment to Trouble to be always "hunting it"—especially when you know the old fellow will come to you if you only wait for him.

One of Riley's.

A correspondent is informed that the verse asked for is by James Whitcomb Riley, and is as follows:

"Ain't a-goin' to worry any more,
Ain't a-goin' to fuss and fret about it;
We'll git what's a-comin' to us sure,
Or, thank God, we'll git along without it!"

Word From Br'er Williams.

It's a good idee to look high, but to watch fer dry wells on de road; an' don't fergit dat a place in de sun might be too hot ter hold you.

Ef we jes' know how ter be happy one day at a time we sho' is gittin' somewhar on de road ter halleluia!

Tribulation sought us,

Land Development of South Can Only Be Accomplished By Leadership of Land Owners

In a "keynote" address last Wednesday before the Georgia Land Owners' convention at Waycross, Robert M. Pindell, Jr., vice president of the Southern Settlement and Development organization, with headquarters in Baltimore, Md., stressed the point that the true development of the agricultural lands of the south and Georgia rests, not with "development organizations," railroads and other corporations, but with the owners of the land themselves.

"Was there ever a country developed and settled and made prosperous and happy except under the leadership of the owners of the land?" he asked. "No, unqualifiedly no!" he answered his own question, "and I know of no reason why a different rule should be applied to the development and settlement of the millions of idle acres that lie along this coastal plain." His address, in part, follows:

"All the wealth comes from the earth, and the waters under the earth, and this is true whether that wealth is the product of the mine, the forest or the farm, so that the real owners of the wealth of a community are the owners of the land. Ownership without responsibility is impossible, and, if what I may say will lead some of you to a fuller feeling of responsibility which the ownership of Georgia land involves, I will have rendered a service which repays me in full for the effort involved.

"I have been in this development business for about two and one-half years. In that time I have examined more or less intimately many so-called developments. In some of them I have taken part, and I say to you frankly that I do not believe there is in the south today an agricultural development that is fully satisfactory in the sense that it could be made to grow indefinitely until there is no more undeveloped country within our midst. Some of you will think that this is a broad statement, and perhaps some of you will take issue with me, but if there is such a development, it has not been brought to my attention, and I doubt if one exists.

No Truly Satisfactory Development.

"The limit of the ten-acre truck farm or the ten-acre citrus grove is easily ascertainable. I do not believe that the south will ever be built with ten-acre farms, or with forty-acre farms; and, therefore, I say that in my judgment there is no such thing in the south today as a truly satisfactory development which may go on and on and repeat itself here and there until these idle acre of yours are sold in the proper units to proper people, and are brought under cultivation in a successful agricultural program.

"It is a remarkable fact that almost every service agency in the south is in the land development business except the man who owns the land. Railroad industrial departments, chambers of commerce, land salesmen, real estate operators and organizations, such as that which I represent, are in the land development business, and the man who owns the thing to be developed, who holds it for the purpose of profit to himself and to his descendants, has been practically ignored. Could anything be more remarkable and even more ridiculous?

"This coastal plain country is the section from which comes the most insistent call for people and development. It is substantially a new country. It does not require census statistics to prove the correctness of that statement.

Owners of Land Must Lead.

"Was there ever a country developed and settled and made prosperous and happy except under the leadership of the owners of the land? No, unqualifiedly no, and I know of no reason why a different rule should be applied to the development and settlement of the millions of idle acres of land that lie along this coastal plain. When you owners of the idle lands of Georgia decide that this country shall go forward, and that the wilderness and waste places shall be turned into homes of happiness and prosperity, it will be done, and until you do so decide, while development may be slowly forced upon us in the lines of least resistance by an ever-increasing economic pressure, it will be so slow that prosperity may come in the same conveyance with the tax collector and the sheriff.

"Shall the next wave of agricultural settlement and development roll along the coastal plain of the southern states and make prosperous and happy homes of your waste places and great wealth for you owners of the land, or shall it seek some other direction and leave you, as it has done before, with a country whose wealth is potential rather than present? The answer, gentlemen, is with you, and it is to consider and meet this situation that we have suggested that you form yourselves into an association for the common good. For, remember, neither the mountain nor the ocean, nor even the desert, offers a barrier to great population movements, when the hand of opportunity beckons; and while it is true that the next great agricultural development in this country is yours by right, it will not be yours to enjoy unless you prepare yourselves to receive it."

STEED ENTERS RACE FOR STATE SENATE

Perry, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Under the rotation plan, Taylor county will furnish the next senator from this district, composed of the counties of Houston, Crawford and Taylor.

Hon. Walter E. Steed, ex-mayor of Butler, who has served Taylor county as representative and who has heretofore ably represented this district as senator, has been induced to enter the race, and his nomination at the primary seems assured.

During his previous service in the senate Mr. Steed gained a statewide reputation for conservatism and ability, and some of the most important statutes of our state in aid of agricultural, educational and commercial development, were largely due to his activity and experience.

Mr. Steed has been urged to become a candidate for the presidency of the senate, and now has the suggestion under serious consideration.

DEKALB CANDIDATES OPPOSE COUNTY MERGER PROPOSITION

Stone Mountain, Ga., August 25.—(Special.) At a meeting held in the school auditorium here tonight under the auspices of the DeKalb County association, an organization opposed to the proposed merger with Fulton, candidates for the legislature declared their stand on the proposition. R. S. Gilliam and J. S. McCurdy, candidates for the house, failed to attend, but of the other candidates, Alonzo Field, candidate for the senate; L. J. Steele and J. L. Chupp, candidates for the house, came out against the merger. Paul Lindsay, candidate for the house, while stating that he opposed the merger, said that if such a petition, signed by a majority of the voters, should come before him, he would see that the people had a chance to vote on it.

The meeting was presided over by Robert C. W. Ramspeck, and was attended by a good crowd. Similar meetings will be held next week as follows: Tuesday night at Redan; Wednesday at Clarkston, Thursday at Tucker and Friday at Ingleside.

GOVERNOR HARRIS ADDRESSES VOTERS OF WEBSTER COUNTY

Preston, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Governor Nat Harris, in addressing the voters of Webster county here today, denied that he had ever stated on the platform that he would not ask for a second term, contradicting a statement of W. A. Orme, of Habersham county, to this effect. Mr. Harris claimed that what he did say in this connection in his former campaign was, "This may be the last time you will have a chance to vote for an old confederate veteran, for if one of my opponents is elected, it would be five years before I could make the race and I fear that I would be too old then."

JOSEPH E. POTTLE DELIVERS ADDRESS IN JEFFERSON COUNTY

Wrens, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Addressing an audience of Jefferson county voters here today, Joseph E. Pottle, candidate for governor, again urged his "disqualification" claims against Hugh Dorsey, asserting that his opponent had done wrong in accepting a fee for his services at Washington, D. C., to prevent the Inneses from gaining their freedom in Texas. He again dragged Mrs. J. W. Nelms into the discussion despite the latter's letter asking that he stop using her name in an effort to make political thunder.

FIVE CANDIDATES IN RACE FOR LEGISLATURE FROM BIBB

Macon, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—When the entries for the coming primary to choose three representatives from Bibb county in the legislature closed at noon today, it was found that there were just five candidates entered, these including the three present representatives—Messrs. Ben J. Fowler, Thomas R. Ayer and H. L. Barfield. The other two entries are Joe Hill Hall and B. Dixon Hall. The race gives promise of being a lively one, but there is considerable surprise that there were not more entries.

None of the other officers to be voted on in this county have opposition.

People to Vote for Second Time On Proposed Changes in Charter; Second Primary May Be Avoided

The city executive committee meeting at noon yesterday to consolidate the vote in Thursday's primary, voted to place before the people a second time the proposed charter amendments contained on the ballots in the city primary at the coming run-off primary to be held within ten days from August 24.

It was decided also by the committee that in the event of no run-off primary being held, the amendments will then be placed before the people at the primary next year.

A resolution was introduced early in the meeting of the committee to eliminate entirely the proposed amendments on the grounds that less than one-half of the registered voters favored the changes. This motion was amended to allow for a second expression of the people's opinion on the grounds that the people did not understand the nature of the proposed changes and for that reason had not voted in sufficient strength to demand that the recommendations on the ticket be placed before council.

What Changes Provide.

The proposed changes call for election by the people of the city tax assessors, the superintendent of schools, the general manager of parks, the city health officer, chief of the sanitary department, chief plumbing inspector, superintendent of mechanical engineering, superintendent or grady hospital, chief of police and chief of fire department, for furnishing free text-books to all city public school children, and for changing the date of the general city election to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of each year so that this will fall on the same date as the general state election. If the vote is large enough to indicate that the people want the change council will be asked to request the legislature to amend the charter accordingly.

The largest vote polled for these amendments was about 8,000. Out of a registration of 16,000 this total was not held to be sufficient as an indication of the people's choice Of the 8,000 votes cast on these amendments only about 5,000 were for the amendments, the balance being polled against.

The largest vote polled for any one amendment was for the election of the tax assessors by the people. Next came that for the election for the park manager and following this was that for the election of the superintendent of schools. The other proposed amendments followed.

The committee did not set the date of the run-off primary, but it was stated that it would be held within ten days if it was found to be necessary.

The run-off would have to be for alderman from the third ward, alderman from the fourth ward and building inspector. A signed agreement was entered into by the candidates for council from the tenth that the high man would be considered elected. This agreement gives the election to Charles T. Bailey, who received the greatest number of votes in the primary.

For Building Inspector.

In the race for building inspector the run-off would have to be held between C. J. Bowen and F. E. Markel. As Mr. Bowen received twice as many votes as Mr. Markel, the second man, it is very probable this count will be taken as final and no run-off will be held.

The race for alderman from the third ward would have to be run between John S. McClelland and Charles L. Chosewood, the high men. It is very probable that in this race the candidates will reach an agreement and Mr. McClelland declared the successful candidate.

The aldermanic race in the fourth ward would be a run-off between Steve R. Johnston, the high man, and Henry P. Garrett. Mr. Garrett said Friday that he would leave the matter entirely in the hands of his friends and would be governed by their decision.

From the attitude of the several candidates as reported by their friends it is not thought that a second primary will be found necessary. The attitude of the candidates will govern the action of the committee.

The committee declared the successful candidates to be as named in The Constitution Friday morning. They also voted the ballots cast as reported.

Successful Candidates.

The successful candidates as declared by the committee are as follows:

Asa G. Candler, for mayor. Walter C. Taylor, for city clerk. James M. Fuller, for city marshal. James L. Mayson, for city attorney. Frank F. Smith, for tax collector. Henry L. Collier, for chief of construction. J. H. Goldsmith, for city comptroller. R. C. Turner, for city electrician. Thomas Evans, for city warden. Thomas J. Peeples, for city treasurer. W. S. Richardson, for alderman from the seventh ward. Jonas H. Ewing, for alderman from the eighth ward. William F. Buchanan, for councilman from the ninth ward. Dr. A. H. Cochran, for councilman from the second ward. W. R. Bean, for councilman from the seventh ward. J. N. Renfroe, for councilman from the first ward. J. C. Little, for councilman from the third ward. Walter S. Dillon, for councilman from the fourth ward. J. R. Nutting, for councilman from the sixth ward. A. J. Orme, for colunciman from the eighth ward. W. H. Johnson, for councilman from the fifth ward. W. F. Buchanan, for councilman from the ninth ward.

Ewing Thanks Friends.

Jonas H. Ewing, nominee for alderman from the eighth ward, issued a statement to the voters of Atlanta. It follows:

"To the People of Atlanta: I wish to express to you my profound appreciation of the splendid indorsement you gave me at the polls yesterday in my race for alderman from the eighth ward.

I sought this office for no selfish purpose but in response to a generally expressed opinion that I could be of service to the city of Atlanta as a member of its legislative body.

"It shall be my purpose by my official acts to merit and justify your confidence and to do at all times what I conceive to be for the public welfare and our civic betterment. Yours very truly,

J. H. EWING.

"August 25, 1916."

Collier Takes Vacation.

Henry L. Collier, successful candidate for chief of construction against H. Nym Hurt, in the city primary, will leave at once for a vacation trip in north Georgia and North Carolina. Upon his return he will begin organizing his department forces along new and modern lines, he stated Friday.

CANDLER IS GIVEN OVATION BY FRIENDS

Mayoralty Nominee Gratified Over Splendid Majority Accorded Him—Leaves to Join Sick Wife in Michigan.

Atlantans yesterday rested content and happy in the full consciousness of a job well done. It was the afterglow of Thursday's election of Asa G. Candler for the mayoralty nomination.

So nearly general was the good feeling, and so many were the expressions of optimism and gratification that the observation was often heard to the effect that many who voted for Mr. Armistead, down in their hearts, today are satisfied with the result.

Mr. Candler himself was a busy man during the first half of the day, going over congratulatory telegrams from almost every section of the United States, and receiving the personal congratulations of his friends in Atlanta. For more than an hour he stood on the main floor of the Candler building shaking hands with his admiring neighbors and fellow Atlantans, trying vainly to make his way to his private office. It was an impromptu reception which was forced upon him as the cause for it had been.

Gratified Over Result.

He was smiling and happy throughout it all and made no effort to conceal his personal gratification at the splendid manner in which his city had indorsed him, and shown him by an avalanche of votes that its demand for him in the first place was genuine and from the heart.

"I knew they'd do it," he said. "I never had any doubt about it from the first, because I know Atlanta. But I didn't expect such a majority. It's mighty good."

Mr. Candler left late in the afternoon to join his wife at Mt. Clemens, Mich., where he left her in a sanitarium at the time he came August 16 to throw his personality into his campaign. A telegram from her Friday morning said she was not feeling so well, and immediately he made arrangements to join her at once. Her condition, it was definitely announced, is by no means serious, and Mr. Candler said he probably will be home again in a week or ten days.

He said he had formulated no plans for the future administration of the city's affairs, and that he intends giving the matter little thought until after his return home.

"I've closed up the chest until I get back," was his way of expressing it. "I don't know what I am going to do when I become mayor; I don't know what is going to need to be done. All that I can say is what I have told the people right along, and that is I will do my best for the city."

Workers Are Congratulated.

Forrest Adair, Charles T. Hopkins, R. J. Guinn, R. L. Freeman, R. F. Maddox, J. R. Smith, Carlos Mason and Frank Calloway, of the executive committee of the Candler forces during the campaign, were each warmly congratulated many times during the day for the manner in which the campaign had been handled and there were enough congratulations to go round to the hundreds and thousands or others who helped, though in less conspicuous capacity. In a word, the aftermath of the election was a big Atlanta "love-feast."

Final castings up of the vote showed little, if any, changes from the results as announced in The Constitution Friday morning.

In three instances the leading candidate failed to receive a majority of the votes cast for candidates for the office, and run-off primaries may be resorted to. However, there seemed to be a general disposition on the part of the second place men in such instances not to force a second election, and many men close to the situation predicted that there will be no second primaries.

Run-off Contests.

These possible run-off contests are as follows:

For building inspector, four in the race. C. J. Bowen, first; F. E. Markel, second.

Alderman, third ward; three in the race. John S. McClelland, first; Charles L. Chosewood, second.

Alderman, fourth ward; three in the race. Steve Johnston, first; Henry F. Garrett, second.

J. H. Ewing, nominated for alderman from the eighth ward, enjoys the unique distinction of being the only candidate to carry every precinct in the city.

Those who like to study the purely political phase of elections and results were Friday "sizing up" how the various successful candidates stand, and the best of their footings leads only to the conclusion that Mayor Candler will have a council to work with which will be "with him." It is pointed out that in nearly all the wards in which were councilmanic or aldermanic contests the man elected in almost every instance was an avowed "Candler man." Some refrained from making plain their position in this regard, but it is not feared even by the most ardent Candler supporter that the next mayor will have any quarrel with his council, and that any possible discord that might now exist between Mr. Candler's policies and those of any councilman or alderman-elect will have been dissipated before the regime at the city hall shall change next January.

WILL INVESTIGATE FIRE.

Joyner Returns to Waycross for Investigation.

State Fire Marshal W. R. Joyner announced Friday that he will make another visit to Waycross in connection with his probe of the burning of the home of J. R. Bourne, county school superintendent of Ware county. Mr. Bourne was attacked by three men and driven from his home and severely wounded in the leg by a gunshot wound before the house was burned.

BY BRIGT CRAIG,
(Special Staff Correspondent.)

Hawkinsville, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—A spirited delegation of Confederate veterans, snow white of head and beard, marched up with the undiminished pride and dignity of the middle sixties, sat upon the stage of the Auditorium here this afternoon and shouted lustily when Hugh Dorsey was proclaimed the Henry Grady of the new south.

"Dorsey is endowed with the foresight of Stephens," said Colonel M. H. Boyer, in presenting him to the huge audience which taxed the auditorium, "the courage and fortitude of Ben Hill, the dignity and equipoise of Toombs. He is the Henry Grady of the new south.

"There are issues in this campaign that strike at the vitals of your interests. And here is a man who champions those interests, defends such issues. Dorsey is opposed to assemblies of politicians who seek through selfishness to ruthlessly overrun the will of Georgia's people. He is opposed to a convention that would attempt to put into the governor's chair any man not placed there by the ballot of the public. He wants you and not a fraction of designing ringmasters to have the vote.

"Why should any man oppose such as the Neill bill unless he seeks to cheat you out of your ballot? When the veto was put on the Neill bill the country counties of Georgia were given a vigorous slap in the face.

"There is another issue that involves you keenly and that is the respect due our court system, the integrity of jury verdicts must be upheld. It is Dorsey's purpose that we might have a rule of lawfulness rather than reign of lawlessness, to see that the guilty, regardless of class or creed, is punished and that the pardoning power goes unperverted.

"Dorsey is in the race not as an officeseeker, but because of the insistent demand of thousands of true Georgians who want freedom of the ballot, political integrity and honesty, courage and intelligence."

Applause that swept over the gathering in gales frequently stopped the speaker in the midst of his words.

It was Hawkinsville's most enthusiastic political assembly. Dorsey was accorded a tremendous ovation. Included in the body of old soldiers grouped on the stage in Dorsey's honor were J. B. Howard, Jack Brown, W. S. Lancaster, Stephen Daniel, John Nelson, Judge D. L. Ridley, J. H. Berryhill, Cully Nobeles and P. H. LoveJoy, the last of whom was mayor of this city for ten consecutive years.

Ovation at Cochran.

Dorsey's speech in Cochran at 16 o'clock this morning outdid any political event in the town's history. The courthouse was taxed beyond capacity. Many were denied admission because of the throng which congested the aisles and doorways. The candidate was presented amidst rousing cheers by Colonel C. A. Weddington, whose prediction that Dorsey would carry Bleckley county solid was greeted by a mighty outburst of approval. Present in the audience was a delegation from Dodge county, which had come to Cochran in five automobiles, headed by S. W. Garrett, I. K. Norman and A. G. Williamson. Its purpose was to persuade Dorsey to deliver an address in Dodge. During the course of his discussion of Governor Harris' veto of the Neill bill a voice from the audience interrupted Dorsey with an indictment of the governor's action, saying: "There was a greedy trick in it."

Convention a Disgrace.

Wherever Hugh Dorsey goes he is being warned against the desperate position of the opposition to undo the will of the people and defeat him in the hoped-for convention. But, according to the present status of the campaign, there will be no convention. The overwhelming expression of the voters of Georgia will preclude all need of it.

The opposition has faith in its convention abilities. As an institution, the convention, according to Dorsey's description, has become a disgraceful medium of factional politics. It is the last recourse of the "ring." Dorsey's opponents have hitherto been able to master the convention, and they are now driving for it with the desperation that precedes vanquishment.

Dorsey's opponents, it is believed, will affiliate in this last frenzied effort. There has already been evidence that they have begun to link hands in their separate campaigns; that the entire rival forces will be thrown together in a combined fight on the winning Dorsey. And, in this connection, it is well to say that Dorsey's superb fight to exterminate just such tactics is one of the causes of his unequaled popularity.

Death on Conventions.

Regarding the propoced fight on him in the convention, Dorsey tells from the stand this amusing narrative:

"There was once an old country doctor whose specialty was fits. He could cure nothing but fits. A boy in the community was seized with colic and the old doctor was the only practitioner available.

"The boy was sent to him. But the doctor was able to apply only his fit cure. 'I might not be able to cure your colic,' he said, 'but I'm death on fits.'

"And it is thus with the opposition. They might not be very much before the people, but they are certainly death on conventions."

Fully warned of the convention conspiracy, Dorsey has already begun forearming in the nature of apprising the people of his opponents' designs. Consequently, Dorsey forces are organizing against any possibility of the situation going in that direction.

Just as each of the opposing candidates is directing his gunfire largely at Dorsey, there are thousands of Georgians—hundreds of whom have told it to Dorsey—who predict that the rival trio will eventually go to bed together in the frenzy that will overtake them in the crisis.

The slogan will be: "Anything to beat Dorsey."

There is in the ranks of the opposition a conspicious politician whose name is known in every home and hamlet of the state. Recently he was asked:

"Who are you supporting in the governor's race?"

"Anybody to beat Dorsey," was the reply.

To Carry 100 Counties.

The attitude of the men who make wagers on political events is a surefire indication of the trend of political winds. Throughout this section of central Georgia through which Dorsey has been touring for the past week, the standard wager is that he will carry a hundred or more counties. This majority would suffice to keep the question from the shadowy corridors of the convention.

"Dorsey has driven fear into the hearts of the politicians," said M. Young, of Pulaski county. "He means the eradication of factionalism, the death of 'ring' politics. He has driven the opposition into a childish panic.

"Dorsey is a man with a will of his own. In addition, he is endowed with stamina. He bows to no man nor influence. When he goes into the chair Hugh Dorsey, and Dorsey alone, will be governor. He is as capable as any man in the state to hold his own office, and direct its affairs without outside aid. No outer influence will interfere with Dorsey's administration; there will be no vacillation.

"The new political epoch that will dawn with Dorsey's inauguration will be brilliant with character and achievement. It will be a reign of grit, backbone, determination. Dorsey's ethics are the very kind that are so essential in statehouse activities. There can be no worthy progress until the statehouse is possessed of these esential.

Has Stirred Resentment.

"The designs of the opposition to vanquish Dorsey in the convention has stirred untold resentment in the breast of Georgia. The unfairness of it, the treachery that is the heart and spirit of the convention as an institution will mean that the people will no longer tolerate its existence, and that this will be the last time it will be available to factionalized politics.

"There will be a monster upheaval in Georgia's statehouse—a thorough housecleaning. There will be launched a splendid regime of manly guidance. The people know the great possibilities of Dorsey, and what a man of his caliber means to the capitol, and they are rising in mighty strength to put him there. It's high time the opposition got into a panic. It's high time they hunted conventions and the like—time they aimed their combined gunfire in his direction.

"Anything to beat Dorsey?

"There's not anything that will."

Scores of political observers whom I have consulted throughout middle Georgia tell of the discredit the opposition is bringing upon itself by its attitude toward Dorsey—its feeble attempts to malign him, its ground-work in preparation for the convention it so desperately hopes to bring about in face of the disapproval of the bulk of Georgia.

Public opinion is that these are the last days of the convention as an institution. As Dorsey, himself, expressed it at Eatonton a day or so ago, "Governor Harris might veto its abolition at this needy stage of the game, but in time the people of Georgia will veto the convention, for it is a menace."

ELEVEN MEN ENTER RACE FOR THREE JUDGESHIPS

George Grogan Proposes That a Joint Commission Select New Appellate Judges.

George C. Grogan, of Elberton, who entered the race for the court of appeals Friday afternoon and paid over his $125 assessment to Secretary Massengale, makes the eleventh candidate in the spirited contest now going on throughout the state for the three new judgeships. Earlier in the day M. J. Yeomans, of Dawson, had been added to the list of paid-up candidates.

Of considerable interest to the other candidates and to members of the bar generally is the proposition made by Mr. Grogan in a circular letter addressed to his competitors to the effect that they submit their case to a joint commission to be composed of the justices of the supreme court and the judges of the court of appeals and that all of the candidates retire from the race except three to be selected by the commission. Thereby he says they would save themselves the trouble and expense of a popular election.

"I respectfully submit my name as a candidate for one of the judgeships on the court of appeals created by the recent legislature. I will not myself say or write you and will not allow others to do so one word in my favor of against another candidate. I will submit to your selection, and will never inquire how any one or more of you may have voted, and all that you may do in the premises shall be sacredly a secret among yourselves."

While there is some speculation as to what answers the candidates will give to Mr. Grogan's proposal, it is not believed that it will meet with general acceptance or that the Georgia courts of review would consent to act as a commission even if the candidates agreed to it. The law provides that aspirants for the appellate court bench should offer themselves for the popular suffrage. The review courts are not in the habit of assuming duties and responsibilities not imposed upon them by law and will probably be willing enough for the voters to settle the contest.

The complete roll of the candidates to date is Roscoe Luke, of Thomasville; John M. Graham, of Marietta; Henry J. Fulbright, of Waynesboro; Alex. Stephens, of Atlanta; W. F. Jenkins, of Eatonton; L. P. Skeen, of Tifton; A. W. Cozart, of Columbus; John R. Hutcheson, of Ashburn; O. H. B. Bloodworth, of Forsyth; M. J. Yeomans, of Dawson, and George C. Grogan, of Elberton.

The entries will close Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

McKenzie Urged to Run.

South Georgia friends of J. D. McKenzie, former judge of the city court of Moultrie, and now one of the most prominent attorneys of south Georgia, have been urging him to make the race for one of the newly created judgeships of the court of appeals.

Mr. McKenzie is a lawyer of marked ability, and scholarly training, and his friends say that he would make an enviable record on the appellate bench, both in the depth of his opinions and in his indefatigable application to the tasks of the court.

He has been one of the leading lawyers of south Georgia for the past 15 years, and his friends say that he has been persuaded to take the matter of the race under serious advisement.

GEORGIA WILL GET FEDERAL ROAD FUND

Highway Department Asked by Page to Submit Plan for Road-Building Covering Five-Year Period.

On his return from Washington Friday, where he conferred with L. W. Page, national director of public roads, Judge T. E. Patterson, of the prison commission, declared that he had great confidence that the Georgia highway commission act would meet the requirements of the federal government and that there would be no difficulty in securing Georgia's share of the federal appropriation.

Three Georgia congressmen, J. Walter Wise, of the Sixth district; Carl Vinson, of the Tenth, and Gordon Lee, of the Seventh, accompanied Judge Patterson to the department of agriculture to see Mr. Page. Judge Patterson reported that their conference with the government officials was a pleasant one throughout and that he apprehended no objection would be raised to the Georgia law. He filed with the department a certified copy of the Adams-Heath highway department act, giving the state's assent to the federal good roads aid law.

Interview With Page.

In speaking of his interview with the department officials, Judge Patterson said:

"At the close of the conference, Mr. Page stated that he wished the state highway department of Georgia to submit a plan for road building covering the period of five years—the period of the effectiveness of the federal act—or longer, if we wanted to. He wanted the plan backed up by a map of the state of Georgia, showing the roads that the department wished to take up each year; beginning with the current year, and going on for the term during which the federal act is in force.

"This map and outline of plans are to be accompanied by arguments in support of the system, showing how it serves the greatest number of people of the state for the area it covers, reaches the greatest amount of farm products for transportation, etc. These facts are desired so that the department may arrive at an intelligent conclusion in selecting projects of road improvement. This [illegible] required of all state departments as well as Georgia, and projects are approved by the government, the appropriation apportioned to Georgia is available.

"We do not anticipate any difficulty whatever in meeting the requirements of the federal department."

Will Meet in September.

The chairman of the prison commission has announced that the state highway commission will hold its first meeting for the purpose of organization at some date during the latter part of September. Organization has been postponed until that time on account of the fact that some of the members of the commission are now away on their summer vacations.

Under the Adams-Heath act, the members of the prison commission, together with the state geologist and the heads of the engineering departments of the University of Georgia and the Technological school, constitute the highway commission of Georgia.

OCHOA KILLS GUARD AND MAKES ESCAPE

El Paso, Texas, August 25.—Manuel Ochoa, the Villista general who surrendered Juarez to the constitutionalists last December under a grant of amnesty, was captured in this district by Mexican customs patrols and escaped after killing one of his guards, according to reports received this evening by General Gonzales at his Juarez headquarters. Ochoa, who had been a political refugee in El Paso, crossed the Rio Grande about thirty miles below here with five followers with a view to joining the revolutionist, Mariano Tames. He and three of the men were caught by the Mexican fiscal guards stationed at Guadalupe. While being held prisoner Ochoa suddenly wrested a gun from one of the guards and killed him. The prisoners then made a dash for liberty. One one was retaken. General Gonzales reports that his men are close on the trail of the fugitives.

San Francisco, August 25.—State mining bureau reports issued today state that 463 new oil wells have been started in California since the first of the year, indicating more activity in oil development work than any time during the past three or four years.

"Deserving Democrats"

Are They Necessarily More Inefficient Than "Deserving Republicans?"

That Mr. Hughes has "got under the skin of the Administration by his attacks upon its Civil Service record," is asserted by several Independent editors, but the Democratic press jeer at the former Justice for emphasizing such a party issue and declare that their party's record is no worse than the Republican party's and some Democratic editors endeavor to show the actual high character of most of the Wilson appointments.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST, which is on sale to-day, the leading article fully covers all phases of the attacks on Wilson appointments that have been made by Mr. Hughes in his campaign speeches. While one Republican editor speaks of the "debauching of the public service," and another terms it "wholesale looting," another Republican journal, the Philadelphia Bulletin admits that "every party—and faction of party—signalizes its possession of power by peddling out the plums."

Every voter in this country should read this article if he would get a clear idea of how the two principal political parties look upon the distribution of public offices.

ONLY ONE GAME TODAY--2:45 O'CLOCK

----EDITED BY----
DICK JEMISON

Crackers Have Bat Fest At Expense of "Pug Cavet;" Only One Game for Today

ONLY ONE TODAY.

There will be only one game today at Ponce de Leon instead of two, as previously announced, the Crackers and the Gulls both having to catch the afternoon train, the Crackers for New Orleans, where they play a double bill Sunday, and the Gulls for home. The single game will start at 2:45 o'clock. Perry and Snyder for the Crackers and Wiley and Schmidt for the Gulls will be the probable batteries.

By Dick Jemison.

Director Frank Reynolds, of the Atlanta Baseball association to the contrary notwithstanding, we still maintain to hit at the first ball pitched a majority of the times is a fault, not an asset.

"What did you think of hitting the first ball pitched today?" he challenged us as we were leaving the park Friday after the Crackers had given the Gulls a 10 to 1 drubbing.

To which we replied: "It's time that some hits were being garnered from the first ball pitched. They ought to secure some by hitting the first ball pitched in 119 straight games. What about the other 118 games?"

In the face of the returns of Friday's slaughter it would seem that the shoe was on the other foot, but the figures fail to prove the wisdom of it. The Crackers hit at thirteen first balls pitched during the game and connected safely four times, or only one-third of the time.

But Friday was a hitting day, and the way the Crackers were hitting it made no difference whether it was the first, middle or last ball pitched. However, as we stated before, with the returns all in, there ought to be some results after sticking to it for 119 straight games.

Slugfest Right.

Professor Virgil Manson Day hurled for the Crackers and held the Gulls to eight hits, which he scattered through as many innings, the Gulls failing to get a hit in the third inning and one in each of the other eight, which is scattering the bingles some.

Tyler "Pug" Cavet was given a terrific lacing by the Crackers, seventeen bingles for twenty-seven total bases and ten runs being the Cracker output for the afternoon.

Everyone got one or more hits but Professor Day, and to Red's credit be it said that Mike Burke robbed him of a blow in the sixth stanza when he speared his drive with his gloved hand. Red has failed to make a hit on the home lot this season, and Mike ought to have had a little sympathy at that stage—fallen down or done something else like that.

Moran led the attack with three singles and a triple. McDonald, with two singles and a double, was next and Niederkorn, with a single and a homer third. Reilly, Mayer and Munch got two hits each, while Yerkes and Perkins got one each.

Steve Yerkes continued his great work at second, handling nine more chances without a bobble, bringing his total to 97 chances and 19 straight games without a bobble. McDonald and Munch boosted their errorless games to 11 each, the former now having 34 chances without a bobble and the latter 223.

Captain Tom Reilly, who was again in charge of the Crackers, Manager Frank still being sick, looked like the Reilly of New Orleans days the way he played at short, handling seven chances, three of them sensational plays, hammering out a couple of hits, scoring a couple of runs and making a couple of sacrifice flies. The fans gave him the applause that was his due.

How They Scored.

McDonald's double, McDowell's error, Reilly's sacrifice fly, a base on balls to Yerkes and Mayer's triple gave the Crackers two in the third.

A base on balls to Massey and Cavet's double gave the Gulls one in the fifth.

Singles by Reilly and Moran, Yerkes' double and Mayer's sacrifice fly gave the Crackers two in the fifth.

McDonald's single, Reilly's sacrifice, Cavet's error, Mayer's single, Munch's single and Niederkorn's homer gave the Crackers five in the seventh.

McDonald's single and Moran's triple gave the Crackers one in the eighth.

FRANKIE CALLAHAN TO MEET WHITNEY

Sensational Brooklyn Lightweight Takes Matt Wells' Place, Latter Breaking His Hand in Training Bout.

It was learned in Atlanta Friday that Matt Wells, the British lightweight, who was to have boxed Whitney at the Auditorium in the wind-up of the big show the evening of Labor Day, had broken a hand while training at Saratoga Springs and would be out of the game for weeks.

Frantic telegraphing by members of the amusement committee of the Trades Federation resulted last night in arranging for Frankie Callahan, the meteoric Brooklyn boxer, to take Wells' place in the main bout. And the committee has every reason to regard itself and the Atlanta boxing fans as good and lucky.

It was not believed that Callahan could be had when the card was made up. He is one of the most popular boys in America, and his card was full of offers. But the urgency of the occasion finally won him, and Atlanta fans now are to see a boy who combines all the cleverness of Wells with an awful punch—something the Briton never did carry.

Callahan's ring victories include wins over Joe Rivers—a knock-out in two rounds—Johnny Dundee, twice; Joe Mandot, Gilbert Gallant, Bennie Leonard—the cleverest boy in the east—Jack Reed, Tickle Sanders, Joe Azevedo, Phil Bloom and others. He is young and full of ambition, and the eastern critics look for him to make a great bid for world honors within the coming year.

C., and Winston, of Chapel Hill, N. C., defeated J. A. Means, of Knoxville, and Fred Thomas, of Asheville, 3-6, 8-6, 6-3. Cary and Winston will be matched against Grant and Smith in the finals tomorrow.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE

Chicks 1, Vols 0.

Memphis, Tenn., August 25.—Backed by faultless fielding, Willett held Nashville to three hits today and Memphis defeated the league leaders 1 to 0. Ruel's single, a sacrifice by Willett and Dobard's single in the fifth inning produced the Memphis tally. Willett's steadiness in the pinches cut off several chances Nashville had to score. In the second Lee doubled with none out, but did not advance; in the sixth the side was retired with Marshall on third, and in the ninth Baker walked and stole second with one out, but two easy outs ended the chances.

Barons 4, Pels 2.

New Orleans, August 25.—Absence of speed in the New Orleans outfield was largely responsible for Birmingham's 4 to 2 victory today in the second game of the series with the Pelicans. Both Grimes and Walker were wild, but the former was strong in the pinches. Some snappy infielding provided the few features in the slow game.

CUT GASOLINE AGAIN.

Gewinner Will Sell One Cent Under Retail Market.

Atlanta automobilists were greatly rejoiced Saturday when J. K. Gewinner, of the Johnson-Gewinner company, announced that they would cut another cent off of the price of gasoline, bringing the retail price down to 23 cents per gallon.

This is the second cut under the ordinary prices which has been made by the Johnson-Gewinner concern within the last two weeks. The first cut resulted in the refiners causing the supply to be shut off. This ended in the matter being brought to the attention of the federal trade commission and in much local agitation that was not pleasant to the wholesale dealers.

Since the first cut made by the Johnson-Gewinner company, the wholesale price has dropped one cent throughout Georgia and Florida. This was attributed by the wholesale dealers to a large increase in the supply, but many buyers have been inclined to give credit to the Atlanta retail concern.

In notifying his patrons of the new reduction, Mr. Gewinner said:

"We have waited a week hoping the oil companies would voluntarily make a reduction. The price of crude oil has dropped from $2.50 per barrel to $1.05 and even lower. Some of the oil wells are closing down because the price will not pay them to operate. The condition justifies a much lower price, and we hope our reduction will have a tendency to hasten a further reduction in the general market."

Motorcycle production in the United States in 1914 amounted to 62,793, valued at $12,306,447, against 18,628 in 1900, valued at $3,015,988. This is an increase of 237.1 per cent in number and 308 per cent in value.

JOHN B. HUTCHESON For Court of Appeals

To the People of Georgia:

I have today qualified as a candidate for nomination as judge of the Georgia court of appeals, at the primary election to be held on September 12, 1916.

I am not opposing either of the present incumbents who are offering for re-election, but am offering for one of the three additional positions created by the recent session of the Georgia legislature.

On account of the brief period intervening between my announcement and the date of the election, I will be unable to personally see or communicate with the voters of the state, and therefore take this method of inviting them to investigate my record as lawyer and citizen, and from this record to determine for themselves my qualifications for the position. Respectfully,

JOHN B. HUTCHESON.

TRAP SHOOTING

By George Peck.

It is the winter days on the farm, with less work to occupy his attention, when time is apt to hang heavily on the young man's hands. He welcomes the first snow and as its white mantle spreads over the fields and stretches away to the woodland beyond, he fondly places his shotgun to his shoulder and swings after an imaginary rabbit in anticipation of the sport to come when the storm subsides and the tracking is good.

These opportunities do not obtain on all farms, however, game being scarce in many sections and even the prolific cottontail becomes a curiosity. It is right here that the handtrap and the clay target fills a niche and lightens the gloom as nothing else can. The young man not only has at hand a sport so fascinating that it has captured the fancy of over 500,000 Americans, but one which will, with a little weekly practice, so improve his accuracy and quicken his judgment on leads that when finally he does go afield in a game country his bag limit is assured.

DRAWING SUPERVISORS RETAIN THEIR PLACES

The value of drawing in the Atlanta public schools was discussed at length at the monthly meeting of the board of education in the Chamber of Commerce building yesterday morning, lasting three hours.

Harvey Hatcher moved that nomination by Superintendent L. M. Landrum of Miss Charlotte Smith and Miss Mary F. Baker to the positions of supervisors of drawing be sustained, and his motion met with the favorable vote of 6 to 4. This was done after a long debate in which some members favored abolishing the positions of supervisors.

The books will be definitely closed on August 31 and there will be absolutely no tickets issued after that date, according to authorities. Those who have moved during the summer, or are expecting to move on September 1 are especially urged to get their transfers before September 1, bringing with them to the office of the superintendent either receipt for September rent or lease on property.

On Friday, September 8, examinations will be given to new applicants, who have never attended the public schools of Atlanta before, and on September 11 the schools will open for regular work.

20 BUILDINGS BURNED IN A HISTORIC VILLAGE

Alexandria, Va., August 25.—Fire today destroyed nearly a score of buildings in Occoquan, Va., an historic village on the Potomac, 20 miles south of Alexandria. A bank building, a general store, a small industrial plant, a church and eight residences were burned. The fire started from a cook stove and was checked only after aid had been sent from here. The loss was $50,000.

Occoquan was built in 1730. It was here that George Washington traded during his residence at Mount Vernon.

Woman Has Foot Injured.

Mrs. H. H. McConnell, 25, of 221 Formwalt street, had her left foot crushed under the wheels of Royal Palm train No. 1 at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning when she undertook to step down from the train as it started to pull out. She was seeing some of her friends off, and had lingered a bit too long on the platform. Mrs. McConnell was taken to the Atlanta hospital.

AMUSEMENTS

"South Sea Islands."

(At the Grand.)

Pictures of hideous savages, wild animal action pictures and views of the beautiful scenery of the South Sea Islands are included in the famous Jack London screen production which comes to the Grand on Monday for a week's showing. The spectator is carried through Sumatra, Guadalanar Islands, through Java and Borneo, and the strange customs and manners of the savages are depicted. The London picture has never before been seen in this section of the south, and in the films the famous author plays an important role. A curious village in Sumatra which is constructed entirely over water is shown.

Vaudeville.

(At the Piedmont.)

The breeziest bill that the Piedmont has had since its opening as a vaudeville house, comes to a close tonight, while next week's bill, which will be offered here for the first time at the matinee on Monday, will be even more compelling than the features which the Piedmont management has booked up to the present time. Rapoli is the headliner on this week's program, while two other numbers of merit are the Stroud trio and June Dixon's models. Billie Burke is the screen star in "The Floating Trap."

Marguerite Clark.

(At the Georgian.)

The closing attraction of the week at the Georgian theater today is another knockout double-header. Marguerite Clark will be shown in one of her greatest successes, "Seven Sisters," and Charlie Chaplin in his funniest comedy, "The Tramp." Supposing there were four marriageable daughters in your family, and the youngest insisted upon snatching away the elder sister's matrimonial opportunities? That is exactly the situation in "Seven Sisters." The picture abounds in many humorous scenes, but nevertheless carries a story that is most interesting and offers Miss Clark opportunities to show her ability as a screen artist of the first rank.

"Under Two Flags."

(At the Strand.)

"Under Two Flags," the gripping tale, by Ouida, has been made into a screen production by the William Fox forces, and the part of Cigarette has been given to Theda Bara. Moving picture critics are unanimous in the opinion that this is one of the really great film productions of the industry. When seen at the Strand recently, two days were not sufficient to allow all who wanted to see this picture to view it. So it is being brought back for today only.

"Race Suicide."

(At the Grand.)

Today will mark the close of a week's run of "Race Suicide," the sensational picture which has held the boards at the Grand. Throughout the lavish production, which has been in course of making for more than six months, the subject of mother love, the beauty of the anticipation and the horror of its disappointment are contrasted with the animal instincts and the passions of the male of the species since the dawn of history. Ormi Hawley is the attractive heroine and the other lead is well handled by Earl Metcalfe.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Newest of big vaudeville sensations, "The World Dancers," in which Emilie Lee and Tom Dingle head a company of twelve notable solo dancers, is announced by Manager George H. Hickman, as head line feature of next week's Keith vaudeville bill at the Forsyth. This act, in which the evolution of the dance from the age of the Cave Man to the present Hawaiian craze, comes here direct from Keith's Palace theater in New York, where it opened. It is a May Tully production, magnificent in every detail, and one of the greatest of the new vaudeville offerings.

Topping this week's bill are Amelie Stone and Armand Kalisz, in a dandy operetta, "Me'amzelle Caprice." Other favorites in the six other acts include Felix Adler, favorite comedian, and George Rolland, in a new comedy turn, "The Vacuum Cleaners."

BIG JUMP IN PRICE OF YUCATAN SISAL

Washington, August 25.—Recent sharp increases in the price of Yucatan sisal have caused the senate sisal monopoly investigating committee to ask that the state department approach the Mexican government with a request that the situation be inquired into with a view to relieving American users of binder twine made from the product. The federal trade commission also has been asked to ascertain certain facts and in the meantime Chairman Ransdell announced today the report of the senate committee will be held up.

"Since our hearings closed about four months ago," said Senator Ransdell, "there has been an increase in the price of sisal of from 7⅝ cents per pound at New York to 10⅜ cents—a raise of 2¾ cents per pound, or over 36 per cent.

"This very material and unexpected increase in the price of a commodity which is so essential to the welfare of the American farmer impresses the committee with the necessity of having additional information before rendering any decision."

Locked on Shields Bill.

Washington, August 25.—Conferees of house and senate working to reconcile differences in the Shields bill to permit construction of power dams by private enterprise in navigable streams today gave up all hope of agreement at this session of congress and adjourned to November 22. Conservationists have made a hot fight on the measure.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, August 25.—Active short covering and enormous cotton house buying resulted in the biggest day the cotton oil trade has ever witnessed, both in point of volume of business and price changes. Early gains of 45 to 94 points were reduced slightly near the close under realizing, but the list went out 33 to 81 points net higher. Total sales, 66,500 barrels. August tenders, 2,100 barrels.

New York, August 25.—Cotton was sensationally active and excited today, with December contracts selling up to 15.89, or 67 points net higher, while March and later deliveries went through the 16-cent level. Heavy realizing sales were absorbed by a broadening general demand and reactions were comparatively limited, with December closing at 15.74 and with the general list closing steady at a net advance of 45 to 56 points.

The market opened strong at an advance of 23 to 31 points in response to a big bulge in Liverpool and reports of continued clear weather in the southwest. There was heavy profit-taking and there also seemed to be southern selling, but houses with Liverpool connections were big buyers, and, after reactions of 10 or 12 points, the market developed even greater strength.

Reports that preliminary returns to one of the prominent crop-reporting bureaus placed the condition at only 65.3 stimulated the demand, while prospects for continued dry weather west of the river led to apprehensions of further deterioration, and the market was also influenced by bullish spot advices from Texas. Trade interests were among the buyers, and there was replacing by old longs as well as covering by recent sellers on the advance of some 66 to 69 points above last night's closing figures. October contracts touched 15.75, while January sold at 15.95 and March at 16.09, with closing prices some 13 to 15 points off from the best.

Private cables reported very few sellers in Liverpool early, and heavy Liverpool buying here was supposed to reflect a further reduction in straddle accounts. The south was credited with selling moderately during the day, while western and Wall street interests were heavy buyers and local brokers attributed the advance to growing apprehensions that the next government report would establish crop figures well below the estimated requirements.

After the close of the market there were private sales of October up to 15.73, or 11 points higher than the official closing quotations.

The cotton exchange will be closed September 2 and 4.

Spot cotton steady; middling uplands, 15.85; sales, none.

New Orleans Rises 51 to 53 Points.

New Orleans, August 25.—On a fitful market, cotton here rose today to the highest prices in seven years. October contracts sold up to 15.52, the highest quotation ever recorded for that month, while March threatened the 16-cent mark, standing at its highest at 15.90. At the best of the day prices were 62 to 69 points up, the strongest rise in many months. This represented a gain of almost $3.50 a bale. Professional traders were the largest buyers and their purchases were placed on expectations of a bullish August condition report from the government.

While trading was heavy around the opening and wild, almost frenzied, buying featured the early afternoon, there were periods of almost absolute dullness. On these periods, however, the market was almost as strong as when the ring was being deluged with orders. Early prices were 26 to 28 points up, October swinging over the 15-cent level with the greatest ease. Liverpool was much better than due and caused a sympathetic buying movement here. A private bureau condition report of 65.1 per cent of the normal increased the demand, as did also the forecast of dry weather for the western belt where the drouth, especially in Oklahoma, was regarded as serious. By noon the advance was widened to 41 to 43 points and during the succeeding hour the market was at its highest.

Profit-taking by satisfied holders of long contracts was almost constant, but, as a rule, these offerings were readily absorbed on a rising market. Late in the session the buying was less keen and prices fell off from the top somewhat, the close being at a net gain for the day of 51 to 53 points. The market was officially toned irregular on the opening and nervous on the close.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW ON BUSINESS SITUATION

New York, August 25.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Trade and industry are active, prices of nearly all products are firm or advancing and reflection of the undeniably poor general crop situation or of the uncertain railroad outlook is sought, almost in vain, in the reports as to trade demand, manufacturing activity or commercial collections. This is attributed to various causes, least of all, however, to exaggeration as to crop damage, though there is probably some of this to be reckoned with.

The general disposition is, in fact, to regard the railroad strike menace as likely to disappear and to view the high and advancing prices of all farm produce as likely to offset the concededly very moderate yields of cotton, most of the cereals and other agricultural food products. In this connection sight is not lost of the reported large balances of last year's wheat crop left over and the necessities of Europe like due to short yields there and the requirements for what looks like another year of war. That Europe in the last fiscal year took nearly $1,000,000,000 worth of war or near-war materials—one quarter, indeed, of all our exports—is a concrete fact that is not ignored.

Bank clearings for the week aggregate $4,281,994,000, a gain of 35.6 per cent over last year.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New Orleans, August 25.—(Special.)—The market advanced on wild speculative buying and of course it may be carried much higher. However, we think purchase at these prices are very dangerous and would rather take the short side on good bulges.

DUGGAN, MAGINNIS & CO.

New York, August 25.—(Special.)—No such prices as those of today have ever existed in Liverpool in the last forty years. So far America is concerned, with the exception of four weeks in 1908 and two weeks in 1909-10 New York has never seen any such prices as those of today. As a matter of fact, there has been no week in forty years in America where cotton could not be bought cheaper than 16; 10 for May cotton. The reason for this advance is not apparent, but is psychological. Crop accounts today are, of course, poorer than yesterday. The market, as well as the weather, contributes to the poorness of crop accounts. The bulls are in absolute control of the situation, and the bears have been forced repeatedly to cover and commitments, and will doubtless refrain from selling cotton for forward delivery until the crop moves and until some more definite idea is had of the size of the crop. The bulls claim that because of gold inflation, which amounts to about 30 per cent on everything, the present prices of 16 to 16¼ cents for next spring months are the equivalent of about 11.25. If normal money rates were prevailing, and they also claim that it is unfair to measure the present prices of cotton by any other prices which ever existed unless you also measure the price of cotton by the price of all other commodities, the most of which show from 30 to 40 per cent higher than was the case before the European war started. Measured by the money standard, cotton is too high, if, however, it is to be used as medium of exchange for other articles then, perhaps some economic reasons exists for its inflated price. We recommend the greatest caution, however, in speculating in an article so susceptible to bull speculation.

RENSKORF, LYON & CO.

New York, August 25.—(Special.)—Trading in cotton seed oil was quite active today, the market scoring further gains on covering of belated shorts and some in investment buying, which was inspired by the strength of associated markets. If cotton continues to show strength we will likely have further gains in oil, but we advise caution in making commitments at the moment, preferring to buy only dips.

New York, August 25.—(Special.)—Heavy general buying again occurred in this market today, which advanced prices about 60 points and into new high levels. Crop estimates are now much below those of consumption, and, therefore, the trade is buying freely.

Coffee.

New York, August 25.—Coffee futures showed greatly increased activity and strength today with prices making new high records for the season. The opening was only 1 to 3 points higher and the circulation of a few September notices caused some little irregularity at the start, but after selling at 8.83 early that delivery advanced to 9.16 on covering of shorts, while March sold up to 9.30 on a broadening demand, which seemed to come largely from cotton trade sources and which was believed to have been stimulated by the continued firmness of Brazil. The close was a shade off from the best under realizing, but showed net gains of from 25 to 28 points. Sales, 108,500.

Spot was firmer in sympathy with the advance in futures, but prices were nominally unchanged at 9½ for Rio 7's and 10⅞ for Santos 4's. No fresh offers were reported in the cost and freight market.

The official cables reported an advance of 75 reis in the Rio market, while Santos spots were unchanged and futures unchanged to 25 reis higher. Brazilian port receipts, 50,000; Jundiahy, 37,000. The weather was fine in the Sao Paulo district, with temperatures ranging from 52 to 88 degrees.

Sugar.

New York, August 25.—There was no change in the sugar situation, either as regards the raw or refined markets and the week closed with no further changes in prices. Holders still offered Cubas in port and afloat at 4½c cost and freight, but refiners were again inclined to hold off and await a better demand for refined before entering the market again. In the absence of business prices were more or less nominal with Cubas and freight offered at 4½, equal to 5.52, for centrifugla and 4.75 for molasses.

The market for refined sugar was dull and unchanged, with refiners listing on the basis of 7.00 to 7.25 for fine, but second-hand sugars were selling as low as 6.85 to 6.90.

The market for sugar futures was irregular but generally easier. The start was 2 to 8 points lower, owing to further liquidation and tenders for about 10,000 tons of September sugar, but toward midday prices rallied on covering and some support from trade interests advancing to within a point or two of last night's closing level. Towards the close, however, renewed selling set in prices eased off, closing 5 to 9 points net lower.

Sales, 8,250 tons.

LABOR DIFFICULTY DEPRESSES STOCKS

Profit-Taking Also Induced Selling—U. S. Steel Makes Good Advance, Which Is Lost by Market Close.

New York, August 25.—Additional profit-taking, induced in part by the approach of the week-end, increased concern over the railway labor difficulty and the general extension of belated bull accounts, contributed to the irregular trend of today's market. Dealings again were moderately large in the aggregate, but more than half the turn-over of about 770,000 shares was limited to less than a dozen stocks, United States Steel alone furnishing a total of 150,000 shares.

Relatively steel was among the heavy issues, its advance from 97½ in the morning to 99⅛ at midday giving rise to hopes of a new maximum that were not fulfilled. Later it led the reversal to lower quotations, closing at 97, a net loss of ⅜ of a point.

Reading, next in activity, was under constant pressure and registered an extreme decline of 2½ points, with more moderate losses in grangers and eastern shares. The trans-continental group was strong in the forenoon, but yielded in the general selling movement of the final hour.

Coppers maintained all of their recent prominence for a time with a new record for Inspiration at 56¾, but they also succumbed to the weight of later offerings, though nominally. There were temporary advances of 1 to 3 points in leading industrials, equipments and munitions, as well as Mexicans and some of the motors, but motors as a group showed irregular depression, with American Can, Consolidated Gas, United States Industrial Alcohol and Marines.

The strength of roubles was the sole feature of the dull exchange markets. Sterling and francs were unaltered.

Trading in bonds was comparatively light, with total sales (par value) of $2,570,000.

United States coupon 4's declined ¾ per cent on call, the coupon 3's advancing ½ per cent on actual sales.

ALL CHICAGO LIST ON VIGOROUS RISE

World-Wide Call and Speculative Buying Proves Big Boost for All Grains and Provisions.

Chicago, August 25.—Free purchases of wheat by exporters rescued that market from earlier doldrums today, and the close was at the top, with advances ranging from 1⅜ in May to an extreme 5c in September. Other pits also advanced, corn ⅞ to 1⅝@1⅞, oats ⅞ to 1¼ and provisions 5 to 35c.

Indifferent cables and a lingering belief that the market had not had sufficient reaction after the sharp advances brought out long wheat at the opening and immediately thereafter prices worked off 2½ under yesterday's close before the slump was checked. Many longs sold out and some professionals took a chance on the short side in the face of the almost unanimous bull propaganda. As has been the case every recent day on any kind of a break, foreigners came into the market at once, and today was no exception. Cash premiums advanced to the highest of the season. A trade journal stated that the milling demand was unprecedented. This, with the crop damage reports, dry weather in Argentina and the short European crop maintained the fundamental strength of the situation during the day and paved the way for the quick response to the foreign purchases.

Corn prices dipped reluctantly with wheat after a higher opening, but advanced when the wheat upturn developed. It was reported, that a ring of New York cotton traders who have been successful on the bull side of wheat turned their attention to corn today for a rise. There was a fair shipping inquiry today and spot was quiet. Argentine corn was said to be being fed, as that country is said to be enjoying a heavy demand for meats.

The market for oats was strong and active on the theory that this cereal compared with others is relatively the cheapest thing in the pits. Exporters and commission houses were heavy buyers. The exporters found it easy to buy because of the hedging sales of country holders who are said to be accumulating supplies partly because of the car shortage. The spot market was strong and ¼c higher.

Shorts and speculators were heavy buyers of provisions, under which stimulus prices advanced actively. Foreigners were said to be taking the goods. Pork advanced 5 to 25c, lard 30 to 35c and ribs 10c.

SERBIANS GAINING AGAINST BULGARS

They Are Making Appreciable Progress on Saloniki Front—Kavala and Draha Not Attacked by Bulgars.

Fighting is continuing in the Balkans but there has been no great battle yet. The allies are apparently "feeling out" the enemy and seeking a weak point at which to strike.

Apparently from the French statement the allied troops do not plan an advance on the right wing as British cavalry detachments are reported to have destroyed bridges over the Angista river. On the left wing Paris reports "appreciable" progress for the Serbians and the capture of several hundred prisoners. In the center, where the main efforts of the allies is expected heavy artillery action is taking place, but there is no report of infantry operations.

PROGRESS MADE BY THE SERBIANS.

Paris, August 25.—The Serbians have made appreciable progress on the left wing of the Saloniki front, and have taken several hundred prisoners, according to the official statement issued by the war office tonight.

The statement follows:

"East of Lake Tahines English cavalry patrols, outmaneuvering the enemy, have crossed the River Angista and have blown up several bridges.

"The towns of Kavala and Drama, which always have been occupied by Greek garrisons, have not been attacked by the Bulgarians.

"In the Struma region there has been somewhat vigorous fighting between the advanced corps of the two armies and some skirmishes have occurred in the direction of the Beles mountains. Toward Lake Doiran and on the right bank of the Vardar, vigorous artillery struggles are in progress. Our troops are organizing the territory conquered in the neighborhood of Ljumnica.

"On our left wing the Serbians have made appreciable progress in the region of Kukuruz. Violent counter attacks directed by the Bulgarians against our positions northwest of Lake Ostrove have been repulsed by the Serbians, who have taken several hundred prisoners."

BRITISH IN TOUCH WITH BULGARIANS.

London, August 25.—The British and Bulgarians have been in touch on the Macedonian front northeast of Saloniki. British troops, despite the Bulgarian fire, destroyed three bridges over the Angista in the vicinity of Kuchuk, the war office announced tonight.

The statement reads:

"On Wednesday our forces destroyed three bridges north of Nechori (otherwise known as Yenikeui, near the Gulf of Orfano between Paso Kopritsu and Kuchuk, near the Angista, east of Tahinos lake) in face of Bulgarian opposition."

BULGARS YIELD TO SERB PRESSURE.

London, August 25.—Successes against the Bulgarians all along the line of the Serbian front in Macedonia are reported in the Serbian official statement of August 22. The statement declares that the Bulgarian center was yielding to the Serbian pressure and that the positions previously designated for Serbian occupation were being seized and held by Serbian troops. The statement follows:

"On the right wing there has been an artillery duel.

"Our offensive is developing successfully in the center and the Bulgarians are being pushed back gradually toward the frontier. We captured 208 men of the third Bulgarian division.

"All the enemy's counter attacks in the vicinity of the frontier and on the left wing were repulsed.

"The positons chosen by our headquarters are being occupied and held."

ITALIAN TROOPS AT SALONIKI.

Paris, August 25.—The landing of Italian troops at Saloniki has now been completed, says an official statement issued today and the transports which brought the men have returned to Italy.

GERMANS LAUNCH DRIVE AT FRENCH

in French trenches, according to tonight's war office statement.

The French gains on the Somme front in the vicinity of Maurepas yesterday were followed by a heavy German counter attack last night. The official report issued today says the Germans were repulsed with heavy loss.

The German assault was delivered against Hill 121 near Maurepas.

Heavy shelling of the German lines continues in the region of Lassigny and Roye.

On the Verdun front the Germans attacked Fleury in the night, but were unsuccessful.

The statement follows:

"North of the Somme our troops consolidated themselves during the night on the ground captured north and northwest of Maurepas. South of the village the Germans made a sharp counter attack aagainst Hill 121, occupied by our troops. Mowed down by our artillery and machine gun fire the enemy was unable to approach our lines at any point and suffered heavy losses. Some sixty prisoners, including two officers, fell into our hands. The total of unwounded prisoners taken in this sector since yesterday is more than 350.

"Between the Avre and the Aisne the artillery fighting was rather spirited in the night, in the regions of Roye, Lassigny and Moulin-Sous-Toutvent.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) the enemy's artillery displayed great activity, as did ours, in the region of Thiaumont work. Toward 2 o'clock this morning the Germans made an attempt against the village of Fleury, which failed utterly.

"In the forest of Apremont there was a rather lively bombardment of our trenches. This was followed by an attempted attack, which was stopped by our curtain of fire.

"Near Chauvoncourt an enemy surprise attack against one of our small posts failed under our fire.

"One of our pilots yesterday brought down a German biplane which fell near Gremacy, northeast of Nancy."

GERMANS ADMIT LOSS OF MAUREPAS.

Berlin, August 25.—(Via London.)—The capture of Maurepas, on the Somme front, by the French is recorded in the official announcement of today.

The statements of operations on the western front says:

"Yesterday evening, as on the 18th instant, after a most marked increase in the enemy's fire oft repeated by the French and British were delivered simultaneously on the whole front from Thiepval to the Somme. Between Thiepval and High Wood these attacks broke down with sanguinary loss. Portions of the most advanced trenches north of Ovillers, which had been demolished, were given up.

"In the sector between Longeval and Delville wood the enemy gained advantages, the village of Maurepas being now in his hands. Between Maurepas and the Somme the French storming attack met with no success whatever.

"The French again attacked on the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front). The fighting was limited to the Fleury sector, and the enemy was repulsed.

"Four enemy aeroplanes have been brought down, north of the Somme, and also one each in aerial engagements near Point Faverger, south of Varennes and near Fleumy, the last named machine on Wednesday; and one south of Armentieres by anti-aircraft guns. As frequently has been the case recently in regard to Belgian towns, bombs were dropped yesterday on Mons. In addition to important material damage to Belgian property, some citizens were injured severely."

RUSSIANS RESUME DRIVE AT TURKS; BITLIS IS CAPTURED

Petrograd, August 25.—(Via London.) It is announced that the Russians have resumed their advance along the entire Asiatic front. The Turks have evacuated Bitlis.

The new offensive movement of the Russians in southern Turkish Armenia is being developed energetically. The war office reported today that the Russian troops are continuing the attack west of Lake Van. The recapture of Mush, in this district, was announced last night.

"Our offensive west of Lake Van is continuing," the statement says. "In the direction of Mosal we are pursuing the remnant of the dispersed Turkish division."

RUSSIANS CHECK TEUTON ATTACKS.

Petrograd, August 25.—(Via London.) Austro-German forces before Kovel, in Volhynia, attempted to take the offensive yesterday, but, the war office reports, were repulsed. Small actions further north, in the sector between Vilna and Baranovichi, also are recorded in the statement, which follows:

"In the region of the village of Sabilki, north of the Lida-Molodechno railway line, the Germans on Wednesday evening let loose a cloud of poisonous gas.

"At midnight Thursday in the region south of Tsirin, northwest of Baranovichi, the enemy, after a fierce artillery bombardment, launched an attack on our trenches, he was stopped by our advanced posts.

"In the direction of Kovel in the region of the village of Volick, the enemy made attempts to resume the offensive, but was repulsed."

GERMANS REGAIN LOST TRENCHES.

Berlin, August 25.—(Via London.)—The official announcement of today respecting operations on the eastern front says:

"Front of Field Marshal von Hindenburg: A counter attack made with the object of recapturing trenches near Zvyjin, which we lost on August 21, was successful.

"On the Graberka yesterday and on the 21st, 561 prisoners were brought in.

"Front of Archduke Charles Francis: There is nothing to report as regards the German forces."

ITALIAN ATTACK BEING HINDERED BY BAD WEATHER

Rome, August 25.—(Via London.)—The new attack of the Italians in the Dolomites, on the northern part of the front, is being hindered by unfavorable weather conditions, but some further progress is reported in the official announcement today.

The statement reads:

"In the Fassa Alps a dense mist interfered with artillery activity, but yesterday our detachments made fresh progress on the slopes of Monte Cauriel, taking about forty prisoners.

"In the upper Degano and But valleys hostile batteries were very active. We repulsed a small attack at Valle di Inferno pass.

"In the Gorizia area and on the Carso the situation is unchanged. Enemy artillery shelled the town and the Isonzo bridges."

BRITISH GAINING IN EAST AFRICA.

London, August 25.—Kilossa, Central German East Africa, 200 miles west of Darh-es-Halaam, on the Indian ocean, was occupied by the British August 22, says a war office statement tonight. The statement follows:

"On the morning of August 21 a column under Lieutenant Colonel Vandeventer attacked Kilossa. The fighting continued throughout the day and during the night a column was detached to attack Mkata, on the railway, 20 miles east of Kilossa, with the object of assisting Lieutenant Colonel Vandeventer. This move was successful and Kilossa was occupied at 9 o'clock in the morning of the 22d. The enemy retired southeast."

SECRETARY DANIELS ON STUMP IN MAINE

Milbridge, Maine, August 25.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels delivered here tonight the first of a series of speeches he will make in this state during the next few days which mark his entry into the campaign for the re-election of President Wilson. While he touched on other topics to some extent, Mr. Daniels devoted himself particularly to answering charges made by Representative A. P. Gardner, of Massachusetts, who has been the secretary's chief critic in congress.

Mr. Daniels referred to a series of thirteen questions regarding the administration of the navy which Mr. Gardner propounded to the secretary in a letter, saying that all of them had been asked by Mr. Gardner and answered satisfactorily by the navy department many times.

"There are doubtless people who are able to ask more questions than Mr. Gardner," the secretary said, "but I doubt if any one has ever asked the same questions so many times without paying the slightest attention to the answers. I have done everything but sing them to him, and while goodness knows I am no singer, if I thought that by so doing I could get him to stop asking questions long enough to listen to the answers, I would gladly set them to music."

Answering one of Mr. Gardner's questions which alleged that twelve of the twenty-one battleships in the fleet recorded unsatisfactory scores in the 1914 battle practice, the secretary produced a letter from Captain C. P. Plunkett, director of gunnery exercises, who said of his twenty years' experience in the navy: "I know of no time during that period when the enemies of our country had more to fear from the batteries of our fleet than they have today."

GERMANY IS PREPARED FOR SEA COMPETITION

Copenhagen, August 25.—(Via London.)—Germany is ready now for the competition on the sea which will take place after the war, declares Philip Heineken, director of the North German Lloyd Steamship line, in an interview in The Politiken today. Every ship destroyed during the war has been replaced, he said, and the North German Lloyd line has built four new passenger steamers named the Zeppelin, Hindenburg, Kolumbus and Muenchen, respectively. The company, he added, also intends to build a large number of 4,000-ton steamers of a uniform type.

The submarines Deutschland and Bremen, said Herr Heineken, would not be used after the war, as the cost of their operation is too great.

100,000 MARKS RAISED FOR KOENIG AND CREW

Bremen, August 25.—(Via London.)—Nearly 100,000 marks has been contributed by a number of wealthy men of this city for presentation to Captain Koenig, of the commercial submarine Deutschland and his crew.

A book is being written by Captain Koenig describing his voyage to the United States and return.

LONDON IS RAIDED BY GERMAN AIRSHIP

Eight Persons Killed and Many Injured—About 40 Bombs Were Dropped by the Zeppelin.

London, August 25.—Eight persons were killed and thirty-six injured in the Zeppelin raid last night, it was announced officially today. One hundred bombs were dropped. One Zeppelin reached the outskirts of London.

The statement follows:

"Further reports show that five or six enemy airships raided the east and southeast coasts of England. Two or three raiders came in over the eastern counties and dropped over thirty bombs without causing any casualties or damage. Another raider attempted to approach a seaport town, but being heavily fired on by anti-aircraft guns, was driven off to the eastward after dropping nineteen bombs in the sea without reaching their objective.

"Another airship which visited the southeast coast also came under a heavy fire from anti-aircraft defenses and was compelled to unload her cargo of bombs in the sea without doing any damage to life or property.

"Another raider succeeded in reaching the outskirts of London, where explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped, and it is regretted that casualties occurred among the civilian population as follows: Killed, three men, three women, two children; injured seriously, three men, four women; injured slightly, four men, seven women, three children. In addition, one soldier was seriously and fourteen were slightly injured by broken glass.

"As far as has been ascertained up to the present, some forty bombs were dropped. Most of these fell either on small property or in the open, but an electric power station was slightly damaged and engineering works were somewhat damaged by fire. Several small fires occurred, all of which were promptly extinguished by the London fire brigade, several persons being rescued from positions of danger by firemen.

"Fire was opened on this airship, which immediately altered its course. It is possible that the first airship was followed by a second raider, but this cannot for the present be verified.

"Some of our airmen went up in pursuit and one airman succeeded in firing at the raider at close range. In all one hundred bombs are known to have been dropped by the raiders."

LONDON BOMBARDED, GERMANS REPORT.

Berlin, August 25.—(Via London.)—The city and southwestern district of London were bombarded Thursday night by German airships, an official statement issued by the war office today says. Batteries at Harwich and Folkestone also were attacked, says the statement, which adds "that everywhere very good effects were observed."

The statement reads:

"Thursday night several naval dirigibles attacked the southern portion of the English coast, abundantly bombarding the city and southwestern district of London; batteries at the naval vantage points of Harwich and Folkestone and numerous vessels at the wharf at Dover. Everywhere very good effects were observed.

"All the airships, both going and returning were heavily, but unsuccessfully, shelled by numerous guarding forces. During their attack they were fired on by anti-aircraft batteries. All have returned."

"CURLEY" BROWN BUYS NEW ORLEANS TRACK

New Orleans, August 25.—Announcement was made here tonight by a local real estate firm of its purchase for H. D. ("Curley") Brown, of Havana, of the City Park race track here. The consideration was $350,000. The track has not been used for horse racing since the spring of 1908. Brown, who operates a track in Havana, has made no announcement as to whether he will conduct a meeting here next winter, but workmen for several weeks have been busy restoring the track and repairing the buildings.

If the City Park track is opened during the coming season there will be two running race meets here, as the Business Men's Racing association has announced that racing will start on the fair grounds track December 16 and continue through Mardi Gras day.

The former owners of the City Park track are Samuel T. Woodring and James W. Gardner, of Lake Charles, La. Brown at the present time is in Windsor, Ont.

"A conference was held yesterday at Calais," says the official statement, "between the French and British governments. A complete agreement was reached on all subjects with which the conference dealt. An arrangement was concluded regarding payments abroad and the maintenance of exchange between the two countries.

"The French government was represented by M. Briand, president of the council of ministers; M. Ribot, minister of finance, accompanied by M. Pallain, governor of the Bank of France, and M. Marjorie and O. Homberg (Octave Homberg, as a member of the Anglo-French financial commission in the United States in 1915).

"The British government was represented by Premier Asquith, Reginald McKenna (chancellor of the exchequer), Edwin Samuel Montagu (minister of munitions) and Thomas McKinnon Wood (financial secretary of the treasury), accompanied by the chief justice, the governor of the Bank of England, and Sir Maurice Hankey."

REVENUE MAN FIGHTS WITH BLOCKADE GANG

Lynchburg, Va., August 25.—In a battle yesterday eight miles from Stuart, Va., just across the North Carolina boundary, Revenue Agent B. H. Mays was shot and probably fatally wounded, and William Smith, one of the blockaders, was also shot. Jim and Fletcher Smith, nephews of the wounded man, who were engaged in the battle, escaped unhurt. The officers trailed a wagon load of liquor to the home of William Smith, and when Smith was ordered to surrender he opened fire on Deputy Mays, who was with Deputy Ross. Mays was shot in the abdomen. He returned the fire and struck the elder Smith in the abdomen. Fletcher Smith also shot Mays in the shoulder. Fletcher and Jim Smith escaped and are at large. Jim Smith served a federal prison term for the killing of a revenue agent eight years ago. Additional revenue men are reported to have joined the hunt for the fugitives.

Special measures will be taken to make the inventory as accurate as possible for the guidance of the German authorities, says the Overseas News agency announcement of the order.

DRESSED TO ATTEND COMRADES' REUNION, AGED VETERAN DIES

Lawrenceville, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—The annual reunion of the confederate veterans of Gwinnett county today was saddened by the death of W. T. Peavy, one of the members. Mr. Peavy, who was 70 years old, had dressed to attend the celebration, but when his son drove up to the house to take him to the meeting he found the old man dead on the porch.

The followers of the "Lost Cause" were royally entertained. The meeting was presided over by President John P. Webb. Several talks were made by members, after which all the old officers were re-elected as follows: President, J. P. Webb; vice president, S. T. McElroy; adjutant, H. L. Peeples; chaplain, A. H. Holland; chorister, H. T. Ethridge. An interesting talk was made by State Pension Commissioner J. W. Lindsey. The old soldiers were taken to Buford in automobiles, where they were the guests of the little city.

Louie P. Marquardt, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, was present at the meeting of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce building, and invited the members of the association to take part in the Labor Day parade.

A committee was appointed by the president, Mrs. Amelia R. Woodall, to go into the matter and construct plans. It has already been agreed that there will be some floats and a number of marchers. The committee is composed of Miss Katherine Koch, chairman; Mrs. E. L. Martin, Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, Mrs. J. Woodward, Mrs. Katie Reeves, Mrs. E. L. Brewer and Mrs. F. D. Warnock.

Automobile Exhibit Will Be Big Feature Of Southeastern Fair

One of the main features of the Southeastern fair will be the tremendous automobile exhibit, which will include the space of two large tents, 100x200 feet each. It was reported yesterday at the meeting of the executive council of the fair association that already forty exhibitors had arranged for their displays, and it is believed that if twice the present space were provided it could easily be utilized.

It has become necessary for the fair association to make many improvements on the grounds, in the way of cutting new roadways and installing water pipes. The buildings are being carefully arranged for the occasion with additional construction and lighting.

Parking space for visiting automobiles presented a problem to the council, which has not as yet been definitely settled.

Building Inspector's Race.

Considerable interest is being manifested among local contractors, architects, material and supply men over the run-off for nominee in the race for city building inspector.

F. E. Markel, being an architect, naturally the architects of the city are lining up behind him in the run-off. Assistant City Building Inspector Bowen being a contractor, is causing the contractors of the city to back him in his race for building inspector.

Both Mr. Bowen and Mr. Markel are hot after the nomination, and began work in earnest Friday, even though it was but one day after the primary on Thursday, when Mr. Bowen led a field of four candidates, with Mr. Markel a good second.

CANNON MADE "JONAH," GALLINGER DECLARES

Senator Attacks the Progressive Republicans for Overthrow of "Uncle Joe."

Washington, August 25.—The first clash of the session between so-called old-line and progressive republicans occurred in the senate today during debate on the emergency revenue bill. Senator Gallinger, the minority leader, criticised progressive republicans for the overthrow of former Speaker Cannon and attacks on the late Senator Aldrich, drawing a vigorous reply from Senator Gronna.

Senator Gallinger declared that certian republicans who had sown seeds of discontent over the Dingley tariff chose former Speaker Cannon as the "Jonah" on whom to heap the burden of blame, and that they preached the false theory that the high cost of living was due to the Dingley tariff.

Senator Gronna insisted that the tariff had nothing to do with the overthrow of Cannon, and that he was attacked only to end an era of autocratic domination of the house. He also hotly denounced inferences that progressive republicans had at that time demonstrated free trade tendencies, and charged that republicans of the "old guard" had sought to subject the farmers of the country to free trade in agricultural products.

Assails Underwood Tariff.

Republicans held the floor throughout the day's discussion. Senator Gallinger predicted a return of the country to the protective tariff policy and assailed the Underwood tariff in unreserved terms.

"The history of the ten months during which the Underwood act was operative under normal conditions," said he, "is sufficient to justify our predictions, and to further put the stamp of disapproval upon the law, which, but for the war, would have ruined most of the industries of the United States, and which, if still in effect at the close of that war, will make this country the dumping ground for all the surplus products of foreign labor.

"In the first ten months of the Underwood law there was an increase of $88,000,000 in imports and a decrease of $342,000,000 in exports.

"Sugar factories closed down or were operated under reduced conditions, steal mills drew their fires, woolen mills retrenched, many cotton mills were forced out of business, factories that remained open reduced their output, stocks depreciated, three million wage earners were out of employment, the largest percentage since 1894-'97, freight cars to the number of 350,000 were idle, as were the locomotives and engineers, freight handlers, firemen and others depending upon their operation, 60 per cent of the railroad mileage of the country was in the hands of receivers, dividends were passed, railroad gross earnings dropped one hundred millions in the ten months, or ten millions a month, bread lines were the longest ever known and there was the greatest demand for charity. When we predicted these things we were called 'calamity howlers,' but I am reciting history now."

Opposes Doubling Income Tax.

Senator Weeks attacked the proposed doubling of the income tax, which he said was designed originally to be used only in a great emergency, and Senator McCumber sought through expert statistics to show that had it not been for the war in Europe the business of the United States would have been demoralized.

The democrats of the finance committee today agreed to strike from the bill the proposed stamp tax on insurance policies, against which there has been a flood of protests. An amendment by Senator Hitchcock proposes a graduated tax on news print paper selling for more than $45 a ton to check the advancing price of the paper. Senator Overman introduced amendments to provide that the proposed 5 per cent tax on manufacturers of materials entering into the making of munitions and especially into gun powder, should not apply to agricultural products. The amendment is designed especially to exempt cotton.

SUBMARINE BREMEN CAPTURED BY BRITISH

U-Boat Caught in a Steel Net in the Straits of Dover.

New York, August 25.—The New York City News association quotes "an officer of the British merchant marine" who arrived here today aboard the White Star steamship Baltic, as authority for the statement that the German submarine Bremen has been captured by the British and 33 of her crew of 35 made prisoners. The Bremen, according to the account, was captured in the Straits of Dover in a steel net on August 2. Two members of her crew lost their lives.

The Bremen, it was said, while enmeshed in the net, was sighted by a British patrol boat, her stern under water and her bow high above the surface. After endeavoring for a time to extricate the wreck, the patrol boat steamed away for Dover with her prisoners.

According to the officer quoted, the British government has maintained silence in regard to the capture as another German trans-Atlantic submarine the Amerika, was said to be on the way here and it was hoped to capture her also.

DEUTSCHLAND PREPARES FOR ANOTHER VOYAGE.

Berlin, August 25.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—Preparations for another voyage of the submarine Deutschland to the United States are well under way. Freight is being received for this trip. The amount of cargo now ready is larger than had been expected, the Overseas News Agency says. All the members of the crew have expressed readiness to sign for the next voyage.

The Deutschland, which reached the Weser Wednesday from the United States, arrived at Bremen, her home port, at noon today. A wild demonstration greeted the vessel and her crew. Many visitors and government officials have arrived at Bremen for the reception to be tendered Captain Koenig and his crew.

The trip up the Weser was marked by the cheering of crowds on the shores and by the sounding of the whistles of beflagged river craft.

ARCHBISHOP SPALDING SUMMONED BY DEATH

Catholic Prelate Had Been in Failing Health for Some Time.

Peoria, Ill., August 25.—Archbishop John Lancaster Spalding, who has been in failing health for the last two weeks, died here this afternoon.

The end was not unexpected and members of the archbishop's family were at his bedside. The archbishop was 76 years old.

Physicians said the recent hot wave left the aged prelate in a weakened condition and his decline was rapid. He had been ill for a number of years, having suffered a paralytic stroke in 1906, and the end has been expected daily for the past week.

The funeral of the archbishop will be held Tuesday morning in St. Mary's cathedral, over which he presided for years. It is expected that Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, will officiate.

The services will be solemnized with solemn pontifical requiem mass celebrated by Bishop Dunne.

ALL KINDS OF LIQUOR FOUND IN THIS HOUSE

When Officers Barton and Wiley raided 78 Chestnut street last night they found five dozen bottles of beer in the icebox, a large stock of wine and whisky and enough empty bottles to indicate that someone had been operating a flourishing tiger. Two negro women, Mattie Lester and Lena Pool, were arrested and are being held under $500 bond at police headquarters.

Jenkins Much Pleased With Support Given Him In Appeals Court Race

W. Frank Jenkins, of Eatonton, candidate for one of the three new judgeships upon the bench of the Georgia court of appeals, created by the session of the general assembly just adjourned, spent last night in Atlanta.

Mr. Jenkins came to Atlanta on business and expects to return to Eatonton this afternoon. He stated last night that he is well pleased with the indorsements and the support which he is receiving from all parts of the state.

"While I am by no means satisfied to rest upon the support which I now have, for any candidate for public office naturally wants the largest majority he can muster," said Judge Jenkins, "I do feel that my friends about the state have rallied to my support in a most loyal manner. The assurances which I have received are most gratifying. It is an office that I really want, and I hope that I shall get it."

Judge Jenkins is one of the most prominent lawyers of the middle Georgia section and has a large acquaintanceship and friendship throughout the state. His popularity throughout the state was signally recognized when he was made temporary chairman of the last democratic convention in Macon.

Negro Pays the Penalty For Taking Wrong Seat On Atlanta Street Car

Arthur Duckett, a 19-year-old negro from Detroit, Mich., forgot he was in the south last night and calmly sat down beside a white man on a street car. When asked by the conductor to move to the rear of the car with the other negroes he insisted that he had a right to stay where he was, as he was a citizen of the United States. When he refused to move the conductor attempted to force him to the rear of the car. The negro immediately started a fight and struck the conductor several times. The car was stopped and the negro placed under arrest by officers and carried to police station, where he was held, being unable to make $100 bond.

DEATH BULLETINS TELL SENSATIONS

gathering of the nightly frequenters of the park and told of their happiness. In every line of the letter, remarkable from the first word to the last, the attitude of his mind could be read. In several portions it was apparent that the physiological effect of the deed he had planned was having its effect and that he fully realized what he was doing.

The letter bore no address and the paper was not folded in any way. With his last message were found his coat and straw hat, his watch, a knife, about 16 cents in money, several letters, one from Senator Hoke Smith, one from Congressman Schley Howard, several from citizens of Adel, Ga., his former home, and one from W. F. Shytle, editor of The Adel News, addressed to whom it might concern and giving him (Webb) the highest kind of recommendation as a man of integrity, high character and ability.

Some of the letters were dated during 1912 and were evidently concerned with matters in connection with his residence in Adel. The letters from Senator Smith and Congesman Howard were dated in 1915 and dealt with charges then being made against Webb for "loafing on his job" as mailing clerk in the Atlanta postoffice, where he was employed at that time.

BLAMES OFFICIALS.

In his letter he charged Postmaster Bolling Jones and I. G. Hart with indirect responsibility for his act, saying that if they had dealt fairly with him during the investigation and the subsequent charges he would not have found it necessary to resort to suicide.

The letter from Congressman Howard was a copy of a telegram sent to the postmaster general at Washington calling on him to thoroughly investigate the alleged charges against Mr. Webb then pending before Postmaster Jones.

The telegram stated in part that if the postmaster general would thoroughly investigate the charges he would find that they were absolutely without foundation.

Another letter in his possession was not dated nor signed but was evidently from a then representative of the state of Georgia in the state legislature. It was addressed to Senator Hoke Smith and was highly complimentary of Mr. Webb. It also concerned the charges then pending against him and asked that they be thoroughly investigated before any action was taken in the matter.

Shortly after the body was found a crowd had collected. The park pavilion at the lake was the scene of several groups of people all discussing the tragedy. None of them knew Mr. Webb. When the body was brought from the water and up to the time it was taken to the undertakers' there was not a person present who knew him. No members of his family were present at the park while the body was there.

Mr. Webb was apparently in the best of health, according to the members of his family, and they could assign no reason for his act other than his financial difficulties. He was dressed in a suit of light summer clothes and had on several articles of jewelry.

"OPEN THIS."

In a sealed envelope was found his cuff links and other articles of jewelry. This was not addressed to anyone, simply bearing the words "open this."

From friends of the family it was learned that he was born in Adel, Ga., and had lived there for the greater part of his life. During 1912 he was treasurer of the town of Adel, as shown by a letter in his possession from the then mayor of Adel, who recommended him highly. At the time he lived in Adel, his position in the town was of the best.

He came to Atlanta about four years ago, according to friends, and by means of a civil service examination obtained the position he held until July, 1915, with the local postoffice.

Following the charges and the investigation of his work by the local postal authorities he was discharged. He then began business as a dairyman, having a store on Cleburne avenue, where he handled milk and cream, selling it by retail.

This venture did not pay well, it was stated by friends of the family, and for some time he had been in straitened financial circumstances.

Mrs. M. E. Love, of 296 Central avenue, with whom his daughter, Miss Maud Webb lived, stated last night that he came to her house Friday afternoon and at that time seemed to be in a very peculiar state of mind.

"I was in the kitchen when he arrived, and I did not hear him enter the room until he was right on me," she said. "I turned and he had a very queer look on his face. He asked me for his daughters, Misses Anita and Maud, who live with me. He talked to them for some minutes and then left. I must have been about 6 o'clock then."

WIDOW IS PROSTRATED.

He is survived by his wife, three daughters and two sons. Mrs. Webb, his widow, is his second wife to whom he had been married for only about four years. When told of the suicide last night she was prostrated and her physician refused to allow her to talk.

Miss Anita Webb, one of the daughters, and Miss Maud Webb, another, were also prostrated by the news of his death and were not allowed to see any one.

Miss Anita Webb is a teacher in the county schools at Covington, Ga., but has spent her summers in Atlanta with her sister, Miss Maud, for some time past. Miss Maud Webb is employed by the Southern Bell Telephone company here.

Ralph Webb, one son, is a student at the state industrial school at Hapeville, according to the statement of Mrs. Love. The other son, Willis, is about eight years of age and lived with his father and mother on Aggard avenue since his father's second marriage.

The third daughter, Miss Laura Webb, was employed by a local pattern company, but for the past several months has been in Byromville, Ga., visiting relatives. She has been suffering from a nervous breakdown from overwork.

He is survived by his mother, who lives at Byromville, three brothers, all living in the middle part of the state, at Nashville, Adel and Byromville, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Nobles, of Tifusville, Fla.

The body was taken last night to Boden & Hunter's undertaking parlors following the request in the letter and will be prepared for burial. Funeral and interment had not been decided on by the family last night.

Entire Body Covered With Watery Pimples

Would Scratch Till Blood Came

Providence, R. I., Oct. 15, 1915.—"Some time ago my skin began to break out in little pimples. These filled with water, and when they opened the watery fluid ran out and spread the trouble until my entire body from my face to my feet was covered. The itching was something terrible, and I would scratch until the blood came, and my skin would feel as if it were burning. I tried a prescription and several kinds of salve, but none helped me. After I had suffered this way for about 14 or 15 months I tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, and the first application relieved me so that I slept that night. In six weeks I was cured." (Signed) Raymond E. Madicy, 690 Union Ave.

Doctors have prescribed the Resinol treatment for over twenty years. Sold by all druggists. Samples free—write to Dept. 3-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

CREW BRAVED DEATH TO SAVE THE TERRY

Washington, August 25.—In an official statement today the navy department paid tribute to the valor of the fire engine room crews of the destroyer Terry, who braved death to save their ship when she struck a reef on the Dominican coast several months ago. The Terry finally went down in shoal water, but was raised and taken to Charleston for repairs.

Secretary Daniels has written letters of commendation to John J. Kenny and Frank E. Shute, chief machinist mates; Michael Grimes, chief water tender, and Curt McAvoy, fireman.

Kenny and Shute were in charge of the engines, and with the water rising to their waists stayed at their posts as long as there was steam to turn over the engines.

"These men did not leave their station until the throttles were entirely submerged," the navy statement says.

Grimes and McAvoy were in the fire room cut off from their comrades when the hatches were battered down.

"They remained at their posts," the statement says, "maintaining a full pressure of steam under urgent demands of the occasion until the water rose over the burner lines, when they still stayed in the fire room to secure the boilers and prevent a possible serious explosion."

GERARD IS IMPRESSED BY TRIP OF DEUTSCHLAND

Berlin, August 26.—(Via London.)—United States Ambassador Gerard is quoted in The Muenchener Zeitung as declaring that the voyage of the merchant submarine, Deutschland, is the most important event in a long time in the relations between Germany and the United States. The ambassador is quoted as follows:

"Americans are convinced by nothing so quickly as success, and the captain and builder of this ship scored a great political success in America for the German people. The impressions made by the Deutschland's arrival in American waters has proved strong and enduring and now that the return voyage has been made safely under probably more difficult conditions it will be harder than ever for persons who try to depreciate German achievements to convince my countrymen."

The interviewer says that Ambassador Gerard expressed to him congratulations to the whole German people and also sent a congratulatory dispatch to the owners of the Deutschland, saying:

"You have not only done much in promoting the friendly relations between Germany and America, but have shown the world another illustration of the enterprise and patriotism of German merchants and engineers."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SEEMS UNDER CONTROL

New York, August 25.—While the daily improvement of the infantile paralysis situation has convinced experts that the epidemic is under control, health department bureau heads estimated tonight that the total number of cases would exceed 10,000 before the disease is stamped out. They predicted that 2,500 children would be left so badly crippled they would have to wear braces and that more than 3,000 others would hover between being perfectly well and being permanently crippled.

The death toll from the epidemic, it was estimated, would be 2,200 to 2,500. There already have been 1,624 cases and 1,734 deaths.
